Brown Says He Got Tip Before Riot

COMBINED AP & UPI

LOS ANGELES—Heavily-armed police patrols reported today that Watts and neighboring South Los Angeles areas were relatively quiet overnight, after yesterday's outbreak of rioting, shooting, stabbings and arson that left two persons dead and 26 injured.

School officials met before dawn today, and on the urgings of police, agreed to keep area schools open today, thus getting many of the restless Negro district's youngsters off the streets.

FIRE BOMBINGS

The few store lootings and scuffles reported overnight for the area were no more than normal for any night, but there were isolated Molotov cocktail episodes, police said.

Six hundred Negroes rampaged for six hours late yesterday in the area still showing scars of last August's bloody riot.

A massive force of several hundred police swiftly sealed off a 36- square-block section in the predominantly Negro Watts district, then moved in to clear the streets of mobs firing guns, hurling bottles, looting stores and upsetting cars.

FATHER KILLED

At the height of the outbreak a white truck driver, Lawrence Gomez, 30, father of five, was shot to death as he pounded on doors seeking refuge from a Negro mob.

A 17-year-old boy whose name was withheld by police was booked on suspicion of murder in Gomez' death. Shortly after Gomez was shot, Joe Lee Crawford, 33, a Negro, died as he walked out of a store into a sniper's gunfire, police said. No shots were fired by police during the outbreak, Sgt. Dan Cooke, police public relations officer said.

Police said 27 persons were arrested.

HOW IT BEGAN

Like last August, when the six-day toll was 34 dead and $40 million in damage from looting and fire, the violence was triggered by a minor incident.

Police said the trouble started after Negro laborer Thomas Lee Galloway, 21, allegedly threw two rocks at a white speech correction teacher driving by, hitting him with one. The teacher, Guy Hyder, 39, summoned police, who had to carry Galloway out of a barbershop he had entered after the rock episode.

Galloway, police said, cried: "Help. Police are beating me. Brutally."

It was about 3:20 p.m. and nearby Jordan High School was just letting out for the day. Negro students gathered around the group and began accusing the officers of brutality in arresting the rock hurler.

Bricks and bottles flew from the growing mob. Police said Negroes started overturning automobiles and setting them afire.

The first victim, Gomez, stepped from his truck to make a delivery of bottled water and was surrounded by a dozen young Negroes.

"Let's get the water man,"

U.S. Will Be First On Moon: Johnson

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A spectacular doubleheader launch got the Gemini 8 space venture off to a perfect start today and President Johnson immediately predicted that the United Staes will beat Russia to the moon.

The Gemini 8 astronauts soared into orbit and began stalking an Agena target satellite across the sky—aiming for the first linkup of two orbiting space ships.

After watching the two booster rocket blaze away precisely on schedule, an elated President Johnson said publicly for the first time:

"We are going to be the first to land a man on the moon and we will land him in the 1960s."

Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, told reporters he thinks there is better than a 50-50 chance the United States will put a man on the moon ahead of the Soviet Union.

TO CLOSE IN

Spacemen Neil Armstrong and David Scott expected to close in on the Agena late today after a 105,000-mile chase chase and complete the historic docking about 6 p.m. EST high above South America.

At 2 p.m. EST, Armstrong gave the Gemini 8 a burst of power — his first major maneuver — boosting the low point of the orbit to 134 miles and slightly slowing the catch-up rate on the target Agena. But by then he had already narrowed the gap between Gemini and its target to some 460 miles. Flying in a lower orbit, the Gemini 8 catches up because it covers a shorter track around the earth.

MORE LINK-UPS

The excitement of the Armstrong-Scott flight won't end with the initial catch and hookup with Agena. Three additional linkings are planned and tomorrow Scott is to drift out a hatch door into the silent emptiness of space to be — for nearly two and one-half hours — a speeding human satellite.

The rookie astronauts calmly soared from the launch pad on a burst of smoke and flame at 11:41 a.m. EST, precisely on schedule despite minor technical difficulties during the long night of preparation. The trou-

Soviets Land Ray-Tested Space Dogs

COMBINED AP & UPI

MOSCOW—Soviet space dogs Blackie and Breezy landed safely today after a record three weeks in space and an unprecedented orbit through high radiation belts, Tass reported.

The official Soviet news agency said "the animals are in good condition after landing." They spent 22 days in space.

The dogs were launched Feb. 22 into an orbit which deliberately took their Cosmos 110 satellite through areas of high radiation. Their reactions were tested in preparation for longer and more sophisticated flights by manned Soviet satellites.

The dogs stayed in space longer than any man. The longest manned flight to date was slightly under 14 days by the U.S. Gemini 7 team.

Tass said the dogs landed safely in the prescribed area. This is believed to be in Soviet central Asia.

The dogs became the first living beings to pass through the Van Allen radiation belts—more than 550 miles above the earth—and survive. It was considered a major experiment in radiation.

Soviet sources said the flight proved the reliability of new radiation shields designed for Soviet spaceships —the same kind of shields that will be vital when spacemen begin to fly to the moon.

Nun, Mother Take Taxicab To Idaho

By ALAN M. ADELSON

Tiburon taxi driver Charles (Ted) Cohen set out with a nun and her elderly mother last Tuesday on a routine trip from Tiburon to San Francisco International Airport.

What followed, he says, "was just one of those things," but it could have been something dreamed up by a Hollywood script writer.

Cohen, 44, ended up driving the two women, and his own wife as well, all the way to Cottonwood, Ida., more than a thousand miles away, near the Seven Devils' Mountains in the north central part of the state.

"It was great. The best fare I've ever had," Cohen declared today.

The whole thing got started, Cohen explained, when he took Sister Mary Keaney to the home of her uncle, Dr. Felix Keaney of Belvedere.

"She got lost and wasn't sure where she was," he said. "When I dropped her off I told her if she ever needed help to give me a ring, so that's what she did."

Last Tuesday, Sister Mary called Cohen to ask him to drive her and her crippled mother from the Laguna Honda Home in San Francisco, to the airport, where they planned to hop a plane home to Idaho.

Cohen picked the two up at the rest home and drove them to the airport. There, he said, an official of United Air lines told Sister Mary that her mother was too crippled to be taken aboard a plane.

"What else could I do?" he shrugged. "She wanted to take her mother home to Idaho, and it would have cost $900 for an ambulance plane. So I called my wife and told her to pack a bag, that we were going on a trip."

"She asked where in the world we were going and I shouted 'Idaho' and hung up."

Mrs. Patty Cohen had a babysitter already at the house for Cohen's three children when her husband blew his taxi horn at noon.

With Sister Mary and her 80-year-old mother ensconced in pillows, the group set out.

"Boy, were they cheerful! I sure wish all my customers were like that bunch," recalled Cohen.

Paratroopers, Guerrillas In Hot Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American paratroopers battled 600 guerrillas for four hours today on the ninth day of Operation Silver City, a drive by thousands of U.S. and Australian soldiers into the Communist-held D Zone north of Saigon.

Two battalions of Viet Cong struck a battalion of the 173rd Airborne Brigade from all directions this morning in the first significant Red reaction to the Allied sweep. The Americans called for air and artillery support and after the fighting tapered off reported 142 Viet Cong killed and three captured, including an officer.

U.S. losses were described as light.

In the central highlands, the U.S. 25th Infantry Division reported a hard fight with a reinforced Viet Cong company around Darlac, 190 miles northeast of Saigon. The infantrymen killed 33 Communists in a series of skirmishes that forced the Reds southward, a U.S. spokesman said.

U.S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 32 combat missions against North Viet Nam yesterday, while other planes destroyed several hundred buildings and huts and three junks in raids on Communist targets in the South, a U.S. spokesman said.

Political trouble continued to plague South Viet Nam's military rulers. There were more anti-government demonstrations in the northern provinces in the Council Adopts Hub Guidelines

By STEPHEN COOK

San Anselmo city councilmen weighed idealistic goals against cash-on-hand practicalities for almost three hours last night, then passed a cautiously worded resolution which set a loose guide for downtown planning.

Councilmen met with planning commissioners, who espoused a much more definite plan for action in the downtown center. Instead of a plan, commissioners got guiding principles, but none left the meeting unhappy.

Chiefly, the commission asked approval of a new street to replace San Anselmo Avenue, which would become a pedestrian mall. They recommended steps be initiated to purchase right of way for this street.

They asked that the commercial area be designated from the new street to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, with a zone comparable to planned development for control of development. From the new street to Cedar Avenue, they asked a residential zone with graduated densities.

The council granted only part of this in a unanimously adopted resolution which read:

"The location of the new street is approved in principle as a guide to planning. All land east of the 'street' is reserved generally for commercial. All land west to Cedar Avenue is reserved for residential with graduated density. The area encompassed by the new street shall not be rezoned (This is an attempt to hold down property values there)."

City Administrator Douglas J. Flautt told councilmen that acquisition and construction of the proposed new street would cost about a million dollars. This could be financed only by an assessment district or a bond issue he said, "because all our gas tax funds are tied up on other projects."

Commissioner John West spoke the planning commission's hope for the proposed street: "The creation of the new street will enhance property values. It will serve as an inducement for commercial development."

"I don't think we will ever need that street," said Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro. "We've been trying to build a new firehouse for at least five years. We'll be at least five more years fixing up Drake Boulevard. I don't know where we'll get the money for these projects, and here we are, talking about a million dollars for a new street."

From the audience, Thomas Stoddard urged councilmen to weigh the commission plan's promise against its cost. Parking lots, he said, would cost less

Bomb Threat Is Telephoned To Terra Linda High School

Answering a telephone at the school at 2:50 p.m., a student heard a deep voice whisper, "There's a bomb planted in the school."

Principal George A. Yertson was told and decided to dismiss school a few minutes earlier than normal finishing time.

While he called San Rafael police, the student filed out and by 2:55 p.m. the main building was empty.

Assisted by school janitors, Police Lt. Jay Fletcher, Inspector Jerry Sousa and Patrolman Robert Wade searched the building. They found no bomb.

Sukarno Held To Have Set Assassinations

Anti-Communist Generals Said On Death List

SINGAPORE (AP) — Sources in Singapore said today an order from President Sukarno for the assassination of four anti-Communist generals has come to light in Jakarta.

The sources said Lt. Gen. Suharto's new military regime has also discovered that Sukarno is in constant touch with Peking by radio from his palace at Bogor, 40 miles from Jakarta.

The sources said they did not know which generals were named in the assassination order but that they understood they were members of Suharto's regime.

ORDER PREPARED

They said the order apparently was drawn up before Sukarno handed over his powers to the military last Saturday. He remains as a figurehead president.

The sources said discovery of the document could lead to "violent action" against Sukarno.

"The whole situation may now be changed," they said.

The sources said reports of the assassination order are circulating widely in Jakarta and could lead to new student demonstrations.

HIGH RATING

The sources said intelligence agents in Jakarta gave the assassination order "a high credibility rating." They said it apparently was found in the offices of Sukarno's pro-Peking foreign minister and first deputy premier, Subandrio, or in the offices of Subandrio's intelligence service.

Anti-Communist student demonstrators stormed into the foreign ministry last week and seized documents. During the army takeover Saturday, paratroops and military police shot their way into the offices of Subandrio's intelligence service and made off with other documents.

NEW DOCUMENT

The sources said the new document apparently is related to another reportedly found by students in the Foreign Ministry which led to the military showdown with Sukarno. They said this was an agreement signed by Subandrio and Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi in which Subandrio agreed to liquidate anti-Communist military men and public officials.

The sources said the students turned it over to the army, which confronted Sukarno with it Friday and took power.

Johnson Signs $6 Billion Revenue Bill

OWE TAXES? YOU ARE IN FINE COMPANY

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you owe Uncle Sam some money on last year's income tax, take heart. You've got some high-level company.

Sheldon S. Cohen, who as commissioner of internal revenue is the federal government's top tax collector, disclosed today that he owes an additional $71.05 but plans to pay up this week.

April 15 is the deadline for filing income tax returns for 1965. If you owe money, it must be paid by that time. For Cohen, the $71.05 is the amount that his withholding fell short of his tax for the year.

Statewide Smog Board Proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A statewide air pollution control board would be established in a bill introduced today by Assemblyman Tom Carrell, D-San Fernando.

Under present law, vehicle smog standards are set by the Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board and stationary smog sources are under local air pollution control districts.

Under Carrell's bill, a pollution control board would set standards for control of all smog sources.

Pupils Lure Birds With Dog Biscuits

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Fourth grade students at Whittier School are learning about birds at close range by enticing them into watching distance with a bird feeding station.

The youngsters maintain two feeding stations, one at ground level for the game birds and one in a nearby tree. The menu includes suet, sunflower seeds, apples, corn, popcorn and a surprise favorite, dried dog food.

Social Security Benefits Boost Will Be Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a bill to bring the government about $6 billion in additional revenue over the next 15 months. He used the signing ceremony to announce he plans to ask Congress next year to make "Social Security benefits more adequate."

Johnson gave no details but said he has asked Welfare Secretary John W. Gardner to make a study of possible improvements in Social Security The bill the President signed last night — within three hours after Congress gave it final approval — grants Social Security coverage to about 300,000 persons over 72.

The signing ceremony capped a busy day for the President and Congress which saw the advancement of four money measures to bolster the nation's Viet Nam war effort.

The first effect of the tax bill is to increase from 6 per cent to 7 per cent starting today the excise tax on car sales. The measure also reinstates as of April 1 the 10 per cent tax on phone calls — the levy is now 3 per cent — and provides speedups in collection of corporate and personal income taxes. The latter takes effect May 1.

The bill is expected to provide some $1.2 billion in extra money by June 30 and $4.8 billion during fiscal 1967 starting July 1 to help finance the Viet Nam war.

Johnson again said he could make no prediction now whether additional tax rises will be necessary later this year but added "you may be assured that this administration stands ready to act when action is needed — if it is needed. I am certain that the Congress stands ready to respond in the same manner."

There were these other developments:

The House passed and sent to the Senate an appropriations bill providing $13,135,719,000 in emergency defense funds, military assistance and foreign economic aid. The House vote was 389 to 3, and Senate approval seemed assured, possibly today.

The Senate approved by voice vote and forwarded to the House an authorization measure providing $415 million in extra economic aid, most of it for South Viet Nam, with smaller sums for the Dominican Republic, Laos, Thailand and the President's contingency fund. The actual funds to be spent under this authorization are contained in the $13-billion-plus appropriations measure.

President Johnson signed another authorization measure to provide $4.8 billion for additional military hardware. The actual funds under this authorization are also in the $13-billion-plus money bill.

ARREST IN WATTS — A Negro resident of the South Los Angeles area struggles with an arresting officer last night after he refused to obey police order to remain in his home. Meanwhile, massive groups of police and sheriff deputies were arresting 30 other persons in putting down disturbances in which two persons were killed, 26 were hurt and a number of fires started. WATTS one shouted.

Two shots were fired, hitting Gomez in the head and chest. He pounded on four doorways in vain, then fell to the sidewalk and died.

At 9 p.m., Gov. Brown flew in to confer with Mayor Samuel W. Yorty and then announced the riot was under control.

Brown later told newsmen he had alerted National Guard officials three days ago after hearing there was "a lot of unrest in the area."

At least 12 fires were ignited, apparently by Molotov cocktail firebombs, late last night and early today. Arsonists tried three times before they succeeded in burning down one building. Fire vehicles, traveling in convoys under police guard, dashed in and out of the Negro district quelling the blazes. Six persons were arrested with fire bombs in their possession.

"Blood" was scrawled across the windows of some shops—just as it had been during last August's rioting to tell the rampaging youths the business was Negro owned.

There were reports of stabbings and muggings in the riot area, a predominantly Negro, low income neighborhood of southwest Los Angeles where some 50 blocks were leveled by fire last year.

But at its worst yesterday, the violence never approached the level of last summer when Negroes rioted a week and 34 persons were killed, more than 900 injured, 4,000 suspects were arrested and damage from the fires and looting ran to $45 million.

Gov. Brown was en route by plane from Washington to San Francisco when alerted of the new Watts disorder. His commercial jetliner was diverted to Los Angeles so he could personally examine the situation. The incident was certain to figure in the campaign for the governorship. Brown, seeking a new term, is being opposed by Mayor Yorty, a bitter opponent within the Democratic party, for the gubernatorial nomination.

Brown said he received a tip from Assemblyman F. Douglas Ferrell, D-Los Angeles, and told Guard officials to confer with police about possible activation of the Guard.

Lt. Frank Beeson said police had learned some valuable lessons last August which were applied successfully yesterday.

There were other lessons which apparently had not been taken to heart.

Last night, as police patroled the streets of the troubled district, a Negro leader insisted the reason for the new outbreak was "crystal clear."

The Rev. A.A. Peters, pastor of the Victory Baptist church said: "The underprivileged have not been fooled by the so-called leaders who were handpicked by the power structure. Until the power structure makes legitimate and obvious steps to help the underprivileged to fulfill their ambitions of entering into the mainstream of American society, there will always remain the threat of unrest, turmoil, hostility and outbreaks of violence."

San Rafael (Spanish pronunciation is Sahn Rah-fah-ayl) was named for St. Raphael, the Archangel.

Brown Riot Trial Bill Stalled By Committee

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown's proposed emergency court system to unsnarl legal crisis like the Watts riots foundered yesterday in the Assembly, shortly before word spread of the new rioting.

The lower house Criminal Procedure Committee refused passage to the court bill authored by Assemblyman Alfred H. Song D-Monterey Park, forcing postponement of final action on the measure for two weeks.

Several committee members sharply criticized the bill, which Song said was written by the governor's office. The criticis claimed it could pose a threat to the civil liberties of citizens.

The bill sets up a procelure for the governor to proclaim an emergency when mass arrests threaten to inundate courts in a particular city or judicial district.

After the governor acted, the presiding municipal and superior court judges could refer cases to other court districts within the same county.

The courts could call to service jurors who otherwise would be exempted—because of their occupation or because they had served previously the same year. Civil courts could be suspended indefinitely while civil judges helped in the emergency.

In his annual message to the legislature, Brown had said the measure was needed to "help our courts cope with the floods of criminal cases arising out of not only the Los Angles riots, but other efforts to impose mob rule . . ."

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, said the bill could endanger the rights of those arrested in uprisings.

He said it would take away "the right of a man charged with a crime in his community to be tried there."

Knox originally moved that the measure be sent to an interim committee for a year-long study, but agreed to let Song postpone action for two weeks.

Other criticism came from Hazen Matthews, lobbyist for the State Bar Assn., who said his group "is concerned about the affect of the law on due process."

empty country, according to Cohen, the only place to make rest stops was at saloons, which the odd quartet did, completely undaunted.

"You should have seen those guys at the bar straighten up and snap off their hats when they saw a nun walking into the bar!" he chuckled.

The fare for the trip was agreed on before they set out, at $611.

On Friday, two days after they waved goodbye to Sister Mary at her snow-covered Idaho house, the Cohens received a card from her saying that she had enjoyed the trip and thanking them for their kindness.

Eagle Scout To Get Award From Kiwanis

Fifteen-year-old David J. Kreps of 290 Via Barranca, Greenbrae, an Eagle Scout, will be presented with an award of merit by the Kiwanis Club of San Rafael tomorrow noon at a ceremony in the Mission Inn, San Rafael.

The award is being made in recognition of David's accomplishments in scouting. In addition to being an Eagle Scout, he has received the God and Country award and will receive the first Eagle palm at the next court of honor.

Marinwood Fire Chief Confirmed

The Marinwood Fire Commission last night recommended permanent status for Fire Chief James Cameron, who replaced Joseph Medley a year ago.

The commission also recommended changes in the department rules, including a provision that would give the chief power to suspend a fireman for three days without going through the commission or the Marinwood Community Services District board.

The commission will meet again at 8 p.m. next Tuesday to discuss the budget for fiscal 1967, which may include purchase of a new fire engine, chairman Donald A. Duerr said.

Officers Subdue Army MP Trying Bridge Leap

A 19-year-old military policeman, discouraged with Army life, wrestled violently with four California highway patrolmen early today in an attempt to throw himself from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Timothy R. Bosscher, stationed at Fort Ord, was taken to Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco after the struggle at 3:45 a.m. on the east side of the bridge.

Four patrolmen saw Bosscher as he stood at the bridge railing. They rushed to the railing and grabbed him, but he struggled with them, at one point actually getting his legs over the railing while they clung to his arms and chest.

A note was found in his pocket which said: "I can't come to grips with the Army, with its pointless rules and rituals. Suicide will erase the disappointment which is tiring me out."

Town Meeting

County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, representing the Second (Ross Valley) Supervisorial District, has called a "town meeting" for 8 p.m., March 30, at the College of Marin gymnasium to hear from constituents.

Space Crafts Enter Orbits On Schedule

bles—in a communications link, a fuel cell power system and a jet thruster—delayed fueling by 90 minutes but did not stop the count down.

They went into space 101 minutes after the unmanned Agena target blasted off on a trail of flame.

"You're looking good, 8," ground control reported.

Gemini 8 went into an initial orbit between 100 and 169 miles. Agena was on a circular orbit of 185 miles.

"Good liftoff," mission control crowed.

When Gemini 8 went into orbit, the target rocket was 1,200 statute miles ahead of it, and the chase was on at speeds between 16,500 miles an hour and 17,500 miles an hour.

"Looking good up here," Armstrong radioed.

It looked from the start like a good flight for the Agena — unlike the heartbreak last Oct. 25 when a target for the Gemini 6 flight soared into the sky and blew up.

Gemini 8 astronauts watched the spectacular lift-off via a television screen in their tight quarters atop the Titan rocket that hurled them after the Agena.

Fortified by a good night's sleep and a breakfast of filet mignon and eggs, the rookie spacemen passed their pre-flight physical and donned their bulky space suits.

They rode an elevator up the side of the 109-foot Titan booster rocket and the capsule atop it for a final briefing before they were shoehorned in by technicians at 9:38 a.m. EST.

Armstrong, 35, is a civilian, and Scott, 33, is an Air Force major.

The daring linkup of the two vehicles was scheduled to occur 185 miles above Peru when Armstrong, the first civilian astronaut to rocket into space, was to gently nudge the nose of the Gemini into a funnel-shaped docking collar on the Agena.

The astronauts were to fly the same course that Gemini 6 astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford traveled in December in tracking down and rendezvousing with the Gemini 7 astronauts — Frank Borman and James Lovell.

They came within one foot of one another and Schirra said later he did not believe docking would be any problem once two objects got that close.

When Armstrong and Scott were told they were in an acceptable orbit, Scott said, "Roger, it looks good up here."

Armstrong was at the controls as the space safari began. Scott was to handle the computer that calculates the precise directions enabling them to make three major orbit changes and several minor adjustments to narrow the gap with Agena.

WAR

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, the ousted commander, flew to his old headquarters in Da Nang in an apparent attempt to quiet the unrest. He told a welcoming crowd of more than 5,000 to think of their country first, not of personalities.

But as Thi appealed for loyalty to the men who fired him last Thursday, political agitation touched off by his dismissal swept the Buddhist stronghold of Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang, and at least two provincial capitals in the area.

The political demonstrations in Hue were accompanied by a general strike that brought most business in the old imperial capital to a halt. Thousands of persons marched through the streets, supporting Buddhist demands for national elections.

Reports from Quang Ngai and Quang Tri, provincial capitals in the 1st Corps area, said strikes were under way there, too.

The handsome, 43-year-old officer who was regarded as a potential rival to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky was embraced by his successor, Brig. Nguyen Van Chuan, and other high-ranking officers of the 1st Corps.

Business in Da Nang returned to normal today after a general strike yesterday and an anti-government rally by more than 3,000 persons. It was the second strike in three days.

The demonstrators in Hue marched on the City Hall and heard four speakers put forth demands being pushed by politically minded Buddhists in Saigon. These are national elections, reinstatment of Thi as commander of the 1st Corps, dismissal of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu as chief of state and Brig. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co as deputy premier and defense minister, and return of some of the generals who led the coup against President Ngo Dinh Diem but later were purged.

Anti-Catholicism played a part in Diem's overthrow and Thieu, a Catholic also, has been a target of other Buddhist demonstrations.

Tiburon Psychiatrist On Smoking Council

Psychiatrist Gerald Hill of 4 Burke Court, Tiburon, has been selected to represent the California Medical Assn. on the California Interagency Council on Smoking and eHalth.

Dr. Hill has been co-chairman of the Marin Interagency council and helped start smoking education activities four years ago by the Marin Medical Society.

Astronauts Have Frog Companions

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 8 astronauts may return to earth with some wiggling, swimming two-headed companions. They'll have the help of some frog mothers — precisely timed to the launch countdown.

It's part of an experiment to see how weightlessness upsets the timetable of life.

Scientists know that frog eggs produce two-headed offspring when they are forced to develop upside down. You can tell if a frog egg is right side up or not because the bottom is black and the top is white.

Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott will be baby sitters for a chamber in the spacecraft cabin that holds about 60 frog eggs in separate compartments.

Several times during the flight they will shoot formaldehyde into a compartment, killing that batch of eggs, and preserving the particular stage of development for later study.

Eggs in the final compartment will be allowed to live to see just what kind of tadpoles and frogs they produce. By the time the astronauts return to earth, their surviving aquatic companions will already be in tadpole form.

New Trial Denied In Belvedere Day School Case

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court yesterday denied a motion by three Belvedere residents for a new trial in their suit to prevent operation of a private day school in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Grounds for the motion, made Jan. 27 after Judge Gardiner ruled that the City of Belvedere cannot be compelled to initiate an injunction suit to prevent the church's operation of the school at 3 Bayview Avenue, were that there were irregularities in the court's proceedings which kept the plaintiffs, Kenneth G. Wells, Harvey D. LaFlamme and Elmer Fraas, from having a fair trial.

The trio claims the school, a non-graded primary school which opened in September of 1963, is illegal because of zoning. Judge Gardiner noted yesterday that the case "should be and can be very simply litigated" between the plaintiffs and the City of Belvedere.

Planning Chief Quitting Tiburon

Leslie Gross, 48, yesterday submitted his resignation as Tiburon administrator of planning and development to become effective April 22.

Gross, in a letter to City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose, said he was resigning to attend to real estate interests in Carmel.

He was assistant building inspector of the City of Monterey before he was hired on Sept. 11, 1964, as building inspector, zoning administrator and planning director of Tiburon.

Gross had submitted a resignation last year but agreed to remain on the job and received a raise in pay.

Bagley, Winslow To Aid Christopher

Assemblyman William T. Bagley of San Rafael and David Winslow of Tiburon will be Marin co-chairmen for George Christopher's campaign for governor.

This was disclosed yesterday noon by Tally P. Mastrangelo of Sausalito, executive director of the Christopher campaign. He spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Marin Federated Republican Women at Le Chalet Basque restaurant in Santa Venetia.

Fairfax School Tax Rate Vote Set For June

The Fairfax School District board last night agreed to ask voters June 7 to approve an increase in the district's maximum operating tax rate.

Amount of the proposed increase will be set April 5, according to Supt. Homer Sisk.

Trustees acted after learning from Sisk that the budget he plans to ask for fiscal 1967 will total $556,165, or nearly $23,000 higher than the current budget.

The board also learned last night that the man they had hired to succeed Sisk as superintendent next fall has changed his mind and turned down the job.

Sisk informed board members during a one-hour closed session after the regular meeting that William Trevethick, 51, of Susanville had decided it would cost him too much to move to Marin County. Trevethick earlier had accepted the job and had agreed to go to work July 1, the day after Sisk's retirement.

Trevethick informed Sisk of his change of mind Monday by telephone, and confirmed it with a letter which reached Sisk's office today. He did not say, however, whether he will continue in his present job as superintendent of Susanville Elementary School District.

The board will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Manor School to deal with the problem. Sisk said the session also will deal with the board's continuing review of its policy handbook.

Resignation of Mrs. Vera Obermeyer, seventh and eighth grade teacher at Central School, was accepted by the board. Mrs. Obermeyer said she will soon receive a credential as a counselor and hopes to get a job in that field.

and have much more immediate value.

Capurro answered him sadly: "With all the empty stores we have now, parking is no longer a problem in downtown San Anselmo."

Kenneth Anderson, president of the San Anselmo Homes Assn., urged that the council hold up all action on the town center plan. He said the city should finish Parking Lot A on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, encourage merchants backing onto the creek to remodel the rear of their buildings, change to parallel parking on San Anselmo Avenue, "then see if you need a mall or a new street."

Commissioner Jerry W. Lloyd noted that when engineers Wilsey, Ham and Blair prepared a similar downtown plan they predicted an ultimate $30 million a year in retail sales in the downtown area.

Councilman John M. Reichmuth countered: "When that plan was drawn, there was no Greenbrae shopping center, no Northgate, no Fair-Anselm, no Sunny Hills shopping center."

Flautt warned that unless the city has some sort of master plan for the area, it will be planned piecemeal, with little council control.

Pupils Shiver As Heat Fails

Pupils and teachers at Manor School in Fairfax wore coats and tried to think of ways to keep moving today after a radiant heating pipe broke underneath the concrete foundation of the building, leaving it very, very cold as school began.

Supt. Homer Sisk said building janitors were able to turn the heating system back on by turning up the steam, which meant the boiler had to run almost constantly.

Heat was rising, but not yet normal, shortly before noon.

Sisk said drilling test holes into the concrete slab to find the leak may take several days.

OBITUARIES

R. H. Iverson Succumbs, Rites Held

Private funeral was held today for Rolf H. Iverson, longtime merchant marine captain, at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley.

Iverson died Monday at a local hospital after a short illness. He resided at 57 Thalia Street, Mill Valley.

He became ill last week while the ship he captained, the Pacific Far East Lines' India Bear, was at Guam. He was flown home to enter the hospital.

Born in Medford, Mass., Iverson had been in the merchant marine about 40 years and held his captain's papers since 1940.

The ship, SS Phoebe A. Hearst, on which he was first mate, was torpedoed off Suva, Fiji, early in World War II. For 14 days he was in a lifeboat and, according to his brother-in-law, Robert V. Kinney, Mill Valley policeman, he was proclaimed a hero by all the crew members at the time. The skipper reportedly collapsed and Iverson sailed the crew back to Suva by lifeboat.

Iverson is survived by his wife, Claire E. Iverson, and two daughters, Mrs. Marriann Hansen of Fairfax and Mrs. Jan Bell of Mill Valley. Also surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. Marie Hencir of Sonoma and Mrs. Norma Promfret of San Diego; two brothers, Herbert Iverson of Eugene, Ore., and Edward Iverson of Midway Island, Pacific Ocean, and three grandchildren.

KATE SMITH

Mrs. Kate B. Smith, 86, of 1 Hilldale Avenue, San Anselmo, died early today in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was the mother of Dr. William Burgett Smith of Ross, prominent Marin County internist who practices in San Rafael.

A native of Keithsburg, Ill., she came to Marin County 16 years ago after the death of her husband, Dr. William Ranney Smith, in Grand Ridge, Ill. in June, 1948.

Surviving are her son, a daughter, Mrs. Sydney Verner of Pittsburgh, Pa., six grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Private funeral will be tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Grand Ridge.

JOHN McCALL

Funeral for John E. McCall, 75, of La Habra, Orange County, father of John E. McCall Jr. of San Rafael, will be held Saturday in Denver.

A native of Hannibal, Mo., the senior McCall lived in Denver 40 years, moving to Southern California about five years ago.

He was retired as a long lines supervisor for American Telephone and Telegraph Co., for which he worked 43 years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Edith McCall of La Habra; his son, and six grandchildren.

Burial will be in Denver.

ALFRED CAMET

Requiem High Mass for Alfred J. Camet, 75, of San Francisco, brother of Mrs. Mildred Coleman of Tiburon, was offered today in San Francisco.

Camet died Saturday in a San Francisco rest home. He was a longtime resident of the city.

He worked for more than 60 years for Shreve and Co., San Francisco jewelers and silversmiths, and was said to be one of eight men in the country who could match diamonds for quality and color without using charts.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Coleman, Bertha Camet of San Francisco, Mrs. Julia Kinney of San Leandro, and Mrs. Emily Fay of Ojai, Ventura County.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

NATO, Euromart Reaction Mixed

LONDON (AP) — France said today it now believes it is desirable for Britain to enter the European Common Market, a move it vetoed more than two years ago.

But Britain replied that France's planned military withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's integrated command was a new factor that would make it difficult for British participation in the six-nation trading bloc.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart announced the new French position to newsmen after presiding over a two-day meeting of Western European Union ministers. They ranged over the problems of allied unity, the North Atlantic Alliance and economic cooperation in West Europe.

Stewart said the French statement now makes clear that all six members of the Common Market are agreed on the desirability of British entry.

Stewart, speaking as chairman of the meeting, said all European Union governments agreed that there must be a phase of preliminary discussion between Britain and the Common Market members before any negotiations on British entry can begin. Members are France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

At the same time, opposition to de Gaulle's plans mounted on all sides of the NATO Alliance.

The French Senate's Foreign Affairs Committee also registered its disapproval, saying in a resolution that President Charles de Gaulle's decisions on NATO "compromise the security of France, the unity of Europe and the consolidation of peace."

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson sent de Gaulle a letter disputing the French leader's arguments supporting his decision to resume command over the 65,000 French troops under NATO control in West Germany.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard told a meeting in Bonn that it would be unbearable for West Germany if a new kind of occupation statute were to be created as a result of a French pullout.

Italian Premier Aldo Moro told the Italian Parliament any changes in NATO's defense setup should come "within the framework of integration." He said the Atlantic Alliance has proved effective by "maintaining in peacetime an integrated and interdependent military organization."

Reporter In Line For Position

James H. Leonard Jr. of 75 Mirabel Avenue, Mill Valley, has been recommended to become public services director of the San Francisco Public Utilities Department, replacing William F. Simons, who resigned last month.

Leonard is city hall reporter for the San Francisco Examiner.

His appointment was recommended by public utilities Mgr. James K. Carr. The city utilities commission unanimously endorsed his action. It must now go before Mayor John F. Shelley and the city board of supervisors.

Carr said he will ask them to waive San Francisco residence requirements so Leonard may continue to live in Marin.

Leonard has been a San Francisco newspaperman for 20 years, and has covered the city hall beat for seven years for the Examiner and the News-Call Bulletin.

On Monday, classes will begin in room 44 at the College of Marin; on Tuesday, at Sir Francis Drake High School; Wednesday, Tamalpais High School; and on Thursday at Marinwood Community Center.

An advanced economics course entitled "Democracy vs. Socialism" is scheduled to start April 13 at the Marinwood Community Center.

Laura Pimiental told about Manzanita and Bayside schools, saying visitors are invited to Manzanita April 27 and Bayside April 28.

Stanley Jackson, who described himself as a "secret agent or spy," introduced Central School and said open house is April 26. Dana Africa described Richardson Bay School, largest of the four, and said visitors are invited April 25. Hours are 7:30 to 9 p.m.

McCarthy Pledges Aid To Landscaping Plea

State Sen. John F. (Jack) McCarthy, R-San Rafael, promised yesterday in Sacramento he would do everything possible to improve highway landscaping at Corte Madera interchange.

Last week, Mayor Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera wrote to the Senator, urging that landscaping at the interchange be improved, especially because Corte Madera is prepar- to celebrate its 50th anniversary in June.

Tax Aide Promoted In Cranston's' Office

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Controller Alan Cranston today promoted Joseph D. Lear, 61, to chief of his inheritance and gift tax division.

Lear, Sacramento, was the division's assistant chief. He succeeded Charles J. Barry, who suffered a fatal seizure while attending a legislative committee hearing in the Capitol last month.

Santa Venetia Demo Files For Assembly

Mertle, of 12 Tarrant Court, vice chairman of the Marin Democratic Central Committee, had announced his intention to run for the Seventh Assembly District post in January.

He is founder and president of Pelafoam, Inc., of Richmond, a plastic foam insulation and packaging materials manufacturing firm.

Filing for re-election as director of Gallinas Village Community Services District was David C. M. Banfield, 28, of 308 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia. He is a utilities company lineman.

James A. Dixon, 63, director of Muir Beach Community Services District, also filed for re-election. Dixon, of Pacific Way, Muir Beach, is an inventory clerk at University of California Medical Center.

Conrad H. Goerl, 46, of 68 Rockridge Road, Fairfax, filed for Democratic Central Committee, District 2. He is an attorney and certified public accountant.

The primary is June 7.

San Rafael attorney Ronald D. Schenk has been named to the San Rafael General Hospital Foundation board, and three members have been re-elected.

All will serve three year terms.

Schenk replaces Robert W. Elliott, a partner in the San Rafael law firm for which Schenk works. Elliott's term expired last month.

Re-elected were board members Dan E. Andersen, Walter R. Castro Jr., Daniel F. Deedy and Paul R. Leahy.

Also re-elected to their offices were Andersen, president; Deedy, vice president; Leahy, treasurer, and George M. Henderson, secretary.

Litterbug Cannot Plead Ignorance

NEW YORK (UPI) —The litterbug can't say he wasn't warned.

A recent survey of state highway departments by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national litter-prevention organization, revealed that at least 46 of the 50 states post signs along highways stating the penalty for littering. Two states didn't answer the questionnaire and two others (North Dakota and Kansas) said they don't post penalty warnings.

The posted fines range from $10 (minimum in Texas) to $1,000 (maximum in Georgia). The most common posted penalties are $25, $50 and $100, but several states announce $500 fines. The signs in Utah read "$299 penalty for littering."

Firemen Don't Accept Firewater

Sausalito firemen don't accept bottled firewater as part payment for putting out fires.

City Councilman Earl S. Dunphy told his colleagues last night that a woman resident (whose name he did not disclose) was so pleased with firemen's quick response to put out a fire at her home that she sent a bottle of spirits to the firehouse.

"The bottle was returned with comment that this was not necessary," said Dunphy.

Conflict Talk On Marincello Suit Cut Short

Should a county employee be the attorney in a suit against the county?

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen does not think so, but his arguments were cut short yesterday by board Chairman Byron W. Leydecker.

At issue was the suit brought by the City of Sausalito questioning legality of the county commission and board of supervisors' action on Marincello.

Richard H. Breiner, a deputy county public defender, is attorney for the city in the case.

During a Marincello discussion yesterday, Kettenhofen said he "questioned the propriety" of Breiner's position in the case.

Breiner arose to debate the issue, but Leydecker brought down his gavel, ruling that the question was not pertinent to the discussion.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said the only county attorney banned by law from suing any public agency in a private case is the district attorney.

Tunnel Work Not To Block Thoroughfare

Representatives of the Morrison-Knudsen Co. and Northwestern Pacific Railroad promised San Rafael city officials yesterday they will try not to cut access to the north end of Lincoln Avenue during reconstruction of the Puerto Suello Tunnel.

The construction company is to start work on the tunnel this week under contract to the railroad.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said a luncheon meeting yesterday with the firm's representatives brought out few details of the construction plans, but did reveal that the builders hope to leave at least one road open through the area at all times during the project.

Andersen said Morrison-Knudsen plans to start its work at the north end of the tunnel, which collapsed during a 1961 fire.

Engineers from the two companies will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow with city engineer Ely Cailouette Jr. and representatives from the county department of public works and the state Division of Highways. That meeting should bring out more details, Andersen predicted.

Marshall Water Speedup Urged

A delegation from the Marshall area last night urged the North Marin County Water District board to proceed as rapidly as possible with the plans for a water and sewer system for their area.

The six representatives present, said they represented 1,700 acres, or about one-fourth of the 7,000 acres in the proposed annexation to the water district, according to Jerome B. Gilbert, district manager.

Arnold Heise, board chairman, assured the group that the water district was moving as rapidly as possible on annexation of this land. It will come before the Local Agency Formation Commission on April 7, he said.

Zoo Cutting Down Sheep Population

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —The St. Louis Zoo is having to ship out some of its Barbara sheep because the herd has increased so rapidly. A zoo spokesman said that Charles Schreiner of Mountain Home, Tex., has been a buyer of the hoofed animals.

Schreiner is releasing several varieties of wild stock on a large acreage of land he owns in Texas. Henry Sanders, Jr., assistant director, reported twins born in the St. Louis herd in February.

Brown Appointees Lashed For Campaigning Conflicts

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A smouldering controversy over three of Gov. Brown's top appointees running for public office has been fanned by the Senate Rules Committee.

Rules Chairman Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D - Fresno, called for a resolution yesterday demanding that such appointees either resign their state posts or cut short their political ambitions.

Burns, Senate president Pro tem, received unanimous support from the committee's two other Democrats and two Republicans.

The Senate chief said that although the resolution wouldn't name the appointees specifically, it was directed at Thomas Braden, president of the State Board of Education; William M. Bennett of Kentfield, a public utilities commissioner; and Milton Gordon, state real estate commissioner. All three are Democrats.

Braden, whose job is unpaid, has announced his intention to run for the lieutenant governor nomination against incumbent Glenn M. Anderson; Bennett for attorney general against incumbent appointee Thomas C. Lynch; and Gordon for secretary of state against incumbent Frank M. Jordan, a Republican.

Gov. Brown, at a March 1 news conference, had some critical words for any of his appointees campaigning on state time:

"This area of my appointees running for statewide office is something that we may have to lay down some rules on," Brown said. "But after I lay them down I don't know how I can enforce them when they're serving term appointments."

At that time, Brown said he had contacted Gordon and told him "it would be highly improper" for the real estate commissioner to receive any campaign contributions from persons licensed by the State Division of Real Estate.

Brown said, however, he was "neither approving or disapproving" Gordon's decision, and added he hadn't discussed the issue with Bennett.

Brown said the three men couldn't take a leave of absence since they had their official functions to perform.

Burns called the issue "an ethical question and a conflict of interest." The Senate leader said the matter has "been bothering me for a long time."

George H. Murphy, head of the Legislative Counsel office which advises lawmakers on legal matters, said he knew of no law which bars appointive officials from running for statewide public office.

Burns then directed Murphy to draw up a resolution calling for a halt to such procedures and present it to the committee later. Such a measure would need a simple majority in both houses for approval and doesn't need the governor's signature.

But the resolution would have no statutory or constitutional authority, still leaving such appointees wide discretion.

Sen. J. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco, a member of rules, joined Burns in castigating the officials and declared they enjoy "a free ride" since they could use their office to political advantage in their campaigns.

State Refunds Disability Cash

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state refuned $5.1 million in overpayments to the state disability insurance fund to almost 250,000 persons, Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday.

He said others may have refunds coming if they apply for them. He urged anyone who had more than $81.40 deducted from his pay in 1965 to apply.

The overpayments were the result of a change in the law last year in which the taxable wage base was boosted Aug. 1, and the disability insurance tax

Utility Firm Opens West Marin Office

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has opened a new headquarters at Point Reyes Station for customers in West Marin, George M. Henderson, Marin district manager, announced today.

The company's headquarters is in the shopping center at Fourth and A streets and is headed by Horace W. (Woody) Crawley, service representative.

Crawley will handle service calls in the coast region from Tomales to Stinson Beach. He will work out of the headquarters but persons wishing to telephone PG&E or pay their electric and gas bills may call the adjoining West Marin Pharmacy, said Henderson, since Crawley may be out on a call. Bill payments will be accepted from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday at the West Marin Pharmacy.

Crawley has worked with the utility company since serving in the military in 1955, working out of the San Rafael area. He and his wife and two children, who now live in Novato, plan to move to Point Reyes Station shortly.

Andrew Jackson smoked corn cob pipes.

Medical Coordinator Need Is Explained

Marin General Hospital medical staff members explained last night that a medical coordinator could ease the load on doctors who are voluntarily handling management tasks.

The Marin Hospital District Board's proposal to hire a medical coordinator was outlined at a meeting of the Marin General Hospital Community Council at the hospital.

In a letter read at the meeting, Mrs. Marion Ibach, board president, said demands on the chief of staff and others involved in management "are very time-consuming and exhaustive."

These doctors serve voluntarily and sometimes at great inconvenience as far as their patients and practices are concerned, Mrs. Ibach wrote.

Directors have authorized a three-member committee to start seeking a doctor for the job, and have budgeted $25,000 for the position.

Dr. Wilson P. Goddard, former chief of staff, said the work at that post "was quite a chore" when he had it, and has increased since then.

Dr. T. Scott Strathairn, present chief of staff, said volunteer help is important, but the size of the staff and number of patients is increasing to the point where a medical coordinator is needed.

Dr. Donald Barbour, president of the staff, said there are 25 medical committees, most meeting monthly and some weekly, and eight departments, which meet monthly.

A medical coordinator could "see that they're not duplicating functions," Barbour said.

Dr. Gerson Jacobs, chairman of the program development committee, said there are too many responsibilities placed on staff members who volunteer their time.

Director Hadden W. Roth said that with the advent of Medicare and construction of a mental health center at the hospital it appears that a medical coordinator will be needed.

Administrator William M. Turner said it would be impossible for the chief of staff to undertake additional duties unless he gave up his medical practice.

Several council members questioned a section of the job description which said the coordinator may be assigned to supervise one or more of the following departments: radiology, pathology, emergency, cardiopulmonary, electroencephalography, physical therapy, nursing, medical library, social service, or pharmacy.

Turner said this duty had not been decided and would depend on the man who filled the job. If a man who has headed a pathology department is hired, it might be well to assign him that department, he said.

Generally, the coordinator will be a medical advisor to the board and the administrator, Turner said.

Among the duties listed in the job description are to coordinate all medical education activities, assist medical staff in establishing standards of medical service, initiate and direct staff educational conferences, investigate and study new developments in medical practice and techniques and adapt them to specific hospital needs, assist in preparing budgets for medical and related departments, and assist in determination of facilities and personnel required to carry out hospital programs.

U.S. Shipment Can Meet War Needs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials say that despite quadrupled military cargo shipments to Viet Nam in the past year the United States has adequate shipping capacity to meet foreseeable requirements.

Sources said yesterday more than 700,000 tons a month in U.S. cargoes are now pouring into Saigon. The exact amount of U.S. shipments to Viet Nam is classified.

More than 300 American vessels and one Norwegian ship are currently carrying military cargoes to Viet Nam for the Military Sea Transportation Service.

Ross Mayor Rips Concrete Ditch

The Town of Ross has coupled a request for congressional action to carry Corte Madera Creek flood control funds over into next fiscal year with a warning that the town council "cannot and will not" give the Army Corps of Engineers blanket approval of extending a concrete ditch through Ross.

The request and the warning are contained in a letter to Rep. Donald H. Clausen, R-First District, by Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen. The letter was authorized at last week's meeting of the town council.

Allen called attention to new complications arising from the Corps of Engineers' insistence that (a) either the project be carried north of the Ross town line, or (b) a ditch with a concrete will—ditch depth and wall height totaling 17 feet—be erected just south of the Ross line at upper end of the "first phase" concrete channel.

Of the ditch and wall, Mayor Allen wrote to the congressman: "It was felt (by the town council) that, aside from the ugliness of this structure, its construction would cause a serious depreciation of property values in the area, and could possibly cause more, rather than less, flooding on the Ross side of the line."

Of continuing the concrete channel through Ross, he wrote:

"The town council cannot and will not give the corps a blanket approval of the project without a study of detailed plans and specifications and time to conduct public hearings on the matter."

Hhe therefore asked Clausen's assistance to extend the deadline for awarding contract beyond June 30—the last day of the fiscal year, when funds will lapse if no contract has been awarded.

The mayor assured the congressman that "the council is ready and anxious to cooperate to the fullest extent with the corps in its efforts to arrive at a satisfactory solution."

Warning Sounded On Ad Soliciting

Marin merchants have been warned by the Better Business Bureau to beware of an organization calling itself Disabled Veterans Department of California.

The group employs a private firm to solicit advertising for a magazine called "Memorial Day Edition."

The bureau reported the organization calls on businesses to sell advertisements and, where refused, has nevertheless sent a bill for the ad.

Sausalito Council Hopefuls On Air

Candidates to Sausalito City Council will air their views tomorrow over Radio KTIM in the third of a series of "Marin Sounding Board" programs devoted to the April 12 municipal election hustings.

Taking part in the 9 a.m. disdussion will be incumbents Jan Paul Dyk and Earl F. Dunphy and contenders Mrs. Marsha Owen, Matthew J. Perry, S. Robert Politzer and Serge Trubach.

A recording of the program will be broadcast Sunday at 12:30 p.m.

School Site Plan Will Go To Trustees

Marin County Supervisors yesterday raised some questions of their own and heard some more while discussing a proposed county ordinance that would require school sites in new subdivisions to be offered to school districts at the developer's cost.

The county ordinance would implement state legislation which allows the requirement in tracts of 400 homes or more.

Supervisor Ernest E. Kettenhofen wanted assurance that all costs, including interest and taxes, would be granted to the developer.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said all costs are provided for and the taxes paid by the developer from the time the school district requested the land would be reimbursed.

Carl S. Brown of the Associated Home Builders asked if there were provision for the land to revert to the developer if the district made no use of it.

This had not been included in the proposed ordinance but supervisors were interested.

Mrs. Winifred C. Frederick of Lagunitas said school boards throughout the county should get a chance to see the proposed ordinance before supervisors act.

Supervisors Vote Pay Hike Of 15% For Social Workers

After long debate and with considerable reluctance, Marin County supervisors yesterday ordered a 15 per cent increase in salaries for county social workers, to take effect April 1.

The action came after Betty L. Presley, director of the county social services department, and County Administrator Alan Bruce said an emergency existed in the department because of inability to keep positions filled. They urged a 20 per cent increase.

Bruce said that this would be his recommendation for social worker in July, but the emergency situation forced him to urge the increase now. A 20 per cent increase, he said, would cost $15,682 for the final quarter of the fiscal year.

The 15 per cent increase finally approved by supervisors will add about $12,000 to the payroll.

Bruce said there are nine vacancies in the department now and 15 workers have left since January.

County Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott presented figures showing salaries in Alameda, Contra Costa, Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento counties well above Marin.

In the social worker II classification, starting pay in Marin is $386 a month, for instance, while it is $530 a month and more in the other counties listed.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss was dubious about giving 15 per cent to the upper pay brackets as well as to the lower brackets, but other board members argued that changing the levels could create situations where workers would be making more than supervisors.

The increase was voted with the understanding that all county salaries would be reviewed in July.

A FEW TIPS FROM THE OLD MASTER

Joe Costa (right), of whom Editor and Publisher magazine has said his "name is synonymous with press photography in this country," looks over a print in the Independent-Journal darkroom with I-J photographer Bob Hax. Costa is in Marin as client relations representative of World Book Encyclopedia-Science Service and to visit friends. A founder and longtime president of the National Press Photographers Assn., he is editor of its publication, the National Press Photographer, on the faculty of the Famous Photographers School, conducts seminars for news photographers and does free-lance photography—keeping plenty busy at the age of 61.

Supervisors Split But Set Marincello Access Hearing

To hear or not to hear was the question before Marin County supervisors yesterday. There was also some fear of slings and arrows from outraged conservationists.

The topic was again Marincello. This time is was detailed development plans for an entry road to the planned community from Tennessee Valley Road.

When the planning commission approved the plans last week, attorney E. Warren McGuire said that a hearing with legal notice by supervisors might be required. He since decided that no notification was necessary, and supervisors could act forthwith on the plan. That is what he asked yesterday.

But supervisors thought some of the interested public might have been confused by the discussion before the planning commission. Also the agenda yesterday noted that the county administrator recommended a hearing on the issue for April 5.

In the end, the board agreed to hold a hearing on the road plan next Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. Supervisor Ernest E. Kettenhofen opposed, saying Marincello opponents will make use of the delay to further fight Marincello.

Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Set public hearing at 11 a.m. April 5 on a proposed amendment to the nuisance abatement ordinance that will allow the county to bill property owners for corrective work after notice and public hearings.

2. Agreed to reimburse "out of pocket costs" for a ground breaking or cornerstone ceremony for the hall of justice. The Marin Council for Civic Affairs is expected to arrange the program.

3. Awarded contract to Bekin Van and Storage at $4,300 for moving the schools office from the Civic Center to the former McGraw-Hill Book Co. building in Corte Madera. The firm was the lowest of three bidders.

4. Hired Marguerite A. Hudson at $345 per month as typist clerk in the treasurer-tax collector's office; Al U. Brown and Frederick W. Garrison, each at $338 a month as deputy sheriffs; Frederick Collins at $486 a month as fire warden, and Patricia A. Harrison at $345 a month as clerk in the social services department.

5. Agreed to promote Sheriff's Sgt. George Barnes, in charge of the contract police force for Tiburon, to Lieutenant. The action was at the request of the Tiburon City Council. The city will pay the increased cost.

6. Set hearing for 9:30 a.m. April 12 on the proposed annexation of a strip of land to the Tiburon Fire Protection District.

7. Adjourned at 4:30 p.m.

Los Angeles To Save Houses, Angels Tramway

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sale of historic Angels Flight tramway and two Victorian style mansions on Bunker Hill have the approval of the city council.

But, ruled the council yesterday in an 8-3 vote, the buyer will have to be a non-profit corporation.

Officials said the corporation will be established by the Los Angeles Cultural Heritage Board with the goal of preserving the properties on their present, or a new, location. Estimated cost of the project is $1 million.

The Community Redevelopment Corp. has noted that the historic properties may remain at their present sites for one to five years while urban renewal is under way in the Bunker Hill

Governors Given Anti-Crime Plan

WASHINGTO (AP) — At President Johnson's direction, Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach has sent letters to the 50 governors inviting them to form planning committees on crime and law enforcement.

"Though crime is a national probmem," Katzenbach said, "the major burden of combatting it must be carried by the state and local governments."

He said such committees "can spearhead a new effort in each state to create a more unified approach" by various law enforcement agencies and also "can help the National Crime Commission by identifying successful new law enforcement and criminal justice methods..."

U.S. Booklet Pictures Marin Beauty Spots

The Point Reyes coast line and National Seashore are pictured in an 84-page booklet, "National Resources of California," just published by the U.S. Department of Interior.

The sailing of Sir Francis Drake into the area now called Drake's Bay is related in booklet's opening passages on state history.

There also is a map and listing of all major federal, state and local recreation areas in the state, including Muir Woods National Monument, Mount Tamalpais State Park, Samuel P. Taylor State Park, Angel Island State Park, and Tomales Bay State Park in Marin.

The booklet can be purchased for 60 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402.

'Canadian Air Force Unit Slated For Hamilton Duty

Twenty members of the Royal Canadian Air Force will "invade" Hamilton Air Force Base April 1 when the base becomes the center for the Western North American Air Defense Region.

Under new arrangements, the region headquarters at Hamilton becomes responsible for the air defense of all or parts of 11 Western states and two Canadian provinces.

Altogether, staff at Hamilton is being increased by 105 to deal with the new commitments. The Canadians, 14 officers and six enlisted men, will be transferred from McChord Air Force Base, Wash.

The 25th NORAD region headquarters at McChord has control of the air defense of northwestern United States and Western Canada. That headquarters will be dissolved on April 1 with Hamilton headquarters taking over that function.

The additional United States personnel will consist of 43 officers and 42 enlisted men. They will be assigned to the newly created Fourth Air Force headquarters under command of Maj. Gen. Carroll W. McColpin at Hamilton.

The Fourth Air Force is the United States Air Force air defense command arm of the western NORAD region. It works in conjunction with Army and Navy counterparts in NORAD and covers the same geographical area within the continental United States.

Larkspur Post Attracts Many

Twenty-eight candidates for the job of Larkspur city manager submitted applications for the position before yesterday's deadline, according to Robert C. Bundy, interim city manager.

Bundy reported that all applications were turned over to a screening committee headed by former City Mgr. Ronald E. Piper and including Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher and Novato City Mgr. J. Julien Baget.

These men, Bundy said, will review the applications and select the five most qualified men, giving their names to the Larkspur City Council by March 21. The councilmen should be able to interview the candidates by April 2, Bundy said.

Cannelloni Recipe--- Epicurean Delight

Would you like to amaze and impress your next dinner guests with a dish that is an epicurean delight usually obtainable only in the finest restaurants?

It is one of those Italian specialties that that is simply "out of this world" when prepared correctly and stands apart from the average, dull, uninteresting casserole.

CANNELLONI A LA WEST END VILLA

Force meat:
- 1 lb. pork butt
- 2 lbs. chicken
- ½ lb. veal
- ½ lb. Riccotta cheese
- 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
- 1 egg
- Salt and pepper to taste

First step in preparing this tasy gourmet creation is to boil the pork, chicken and veal together with a Bouquet Garni, with just enough water to cover. Although Chef Bamatter always has this Garni on hand at the West End Villa, it's simple to add the following ingredients to the meat and make your own. Just add 2 carrots, 1 medium-sized onion, 2 large sprigs of parsley, 1 stalk of celery, 1 leek, 1 bay leaf and 2 cloves.

Blanche the meat first, which means bring it to a boil and then change the water. Bring the meat to a boil again and then add the Garni. When the meat has been cooked and deboned, grind it very fine and then mix with the above remaining ingredients. This mixture will be rolled inside of crepes.

Since the crepes are a vital part of this delectable delicacy, great care should be given to their preparation.

CREPES
- ½ cup flour
- 1½ cups milk
- 3 eggs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon butter

Mix above ingredients. On griddle (or a 4" crepe pan, if you have one at home) heat a little salad oil or shortening. Drop batter in 4" rounds on griddle; cook, turning once, until a light brown on both sides. Then lay crepes out flat on table and roll each one around the force meat. Trim both ends off for uniform size.

For the final steps in this Cannelloni recipe, you'll also need tomato sauce, Monterey Jack cheese and a small amount of cream sauce.

Place a thick tomato sauce (which you will have prepared ahead of time) about ½" deep in a 2" deep baking dish. Then arrange the Cannellonis in this dish on the tomato sauce—spacing them about 1" apart. Place in a medium hot oven (325-350 degrees) for about 10-12 minutes. When the Cannellonis are golden brown, place strips of Monterey Jack cheese on top of each. Let the cheese melt and serve this extra special treat immediately.

CHEF BAMATTER, who was born and trained in Switzerland, has a little extra tip when you're ready to serve them. First, he suggests you always serve them on piping hot plates. Sprinkle a little Parmesan cheese on the plates, then pour about a tablespoon of cream sauce over the Parmesan cheese. Place the Cannellonis and tomato sauce on top and sit back and wait for the compliments, which are sure to be forthcoming from your delighted guests!

The West End Villa is located in a 75-year-old building which has been a historical landmark since its early days when it housed a popular candy parlor and the West End train station was located directly across the street.

MRS. EDWARD CIOCCA, who still resides in the flat upstairs, incidentally, purchased the building and adjacent property in 1906 when she and her family moved to Marin following the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

In 1950, Peter Ostaggi purchased the downstairs area and turned it into the original West End Villa, with an informal warmth which made it a popular family dining-out spot. When Bill Bisson and Adolph Motta became the new owners in 1964, they decided to retain this same friendly warm atmosphere, yet remodeled it into one of the most luxurious, gaslit Victorian-type restauraunts in the area, with exquisite cuisine available to please any gourmet.

THIS IS a real party appetizer featuring a Pink Shrimp Mousse surrounded with Toasted Thins. The beauty of the mousse is that it may be prepared and unmolded ahead of time, then placed on the buffet for guests to admire as well as enjoy.

KITCHEN REGULARS

Pearl Mesta Rivaled By Teen-Age Girl Hostesses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Perle Mesta has close to 12 million rivals for the title of hostess with the mostes'.

They are U. S. teen-age girls. A new study shows that the youngsters gave a total of 13 million major parties last year, averaging 28 guests and costing a total of $23.7 million.

Mrs. Mesta received the nickname from an Irving Berlin song title, "The Hostess with the Mostes' on the Ball" from the Broadway musical, "Call Me Madam." The show was said to be based on Mrs. Mesta's career as U. S. Ambassador to Luxembourg from 1949 to 1953.

The girls proved to be regulars in the kitchen too—almost all help prepare family meals; nine out of 10 plan family meals; and eight out of 10 shop. In their marketing, they spend one-fourth of their families' total food budgets.

THREE - FOURTHS of them also wash dishes. The survey, based on 1,360 responses to a questionnaire, did not ask if all this help was voluntary or by parental request.

The findings were corroborated by 653 mothers of the girls who made up the consumer panel. Mothers completed separate questionnaires.

Their choice of favorite foods reflects knowledge of good nutrition. Roasts and steaks ran almost neck-and-neck for first place. Roasts received 44 per cent of the vote, to 42.4 per cent for steaks.

OTHER favorites included, in this order, vegetables and potatoes, baked desserts, fowl, pasta and pizza. Surprisingly, fish and shellfish ranked eighth, 1.4 per cent ahead of hamburger.

The party-givers said they spent an average of $18.51 per party. Only 10.6 per cent said they served a full meal at the parties, and a fifth served both a meal and snacks.

The most frequently served party foods were, in this order: potato chips, regular soft drinks, dips, corn chips, candy, nuts, pretzels, cookies, cake and ice cream.

A fourth of the panel members said that they had, in addition to formal parties, casual gatherings once a month.

Further insight into teen-age partying is provided by a booklet based on 900 entries in the 1965 party-of-the-year contest run by a teen-age magazine, Seventeen, which also conducted the survey.

THE BOOKLET revealed that teen-agers build parties around themes such as foreign countries or off-beat subjects—including the Beatles, voodoo, and space travel. Although the menus often sound unusual, they're usually conventional American dishes renamed for the occasion.

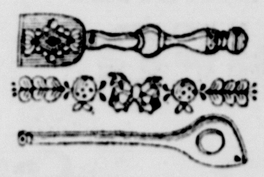
Mousse-Topped Shrimp Dish Makes Spectacular Appetizer

So you have a very special occasion on your social calendar—a wedding rehearsal, an anniversary supper, a reception for the guest soloist at the local symphony — and you're looking for a spectacular appetizer.

AS EASY to make as it is beautiful to admire is this mousse - topped fountain of shrimp. The mousse provides a welcome change from the cocktail sauce usually served with shrimp and doubles as a zesty spread for the Toasted Thins.

It can be made ahead and unmolded on the top tier of a two-tier serving platter shortly before guests arrive. Surround it with cooked shrimp—the jumbo size, with the tails left on. Place more shrimp garnished with lemon wedges and sprigs of parsley in the center of the lower tier, then arrange Toasted Thins around the edge. These miniature toasted bread slices come in four flavors: onion, cheese, rye and white, and are the perfect accompaniment for your fountain of shrimp.

PINK SHRIMP MOUSSE
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 8-ounce bottle Thousand Island dressing



- ½ teaspoon horseradish
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups cooked, finely chopped shrimp
- ½ cup sliced celery
- ¼ cup shopped green pepper
- 1 package Toasted Thins

Soften gelatin in cold water, heat slowly until dissolved. Soften cream cheese with spatula and gradually stir in bottled salad dressing; mix until well blended. Cheese-Flavored Noodles Add To Lenten Casserole

Buttery, cheese-flavored noodles nestling a creamy sauce of asparagus and tuna is a wonderful casserole to prepare for your family on these cold days.

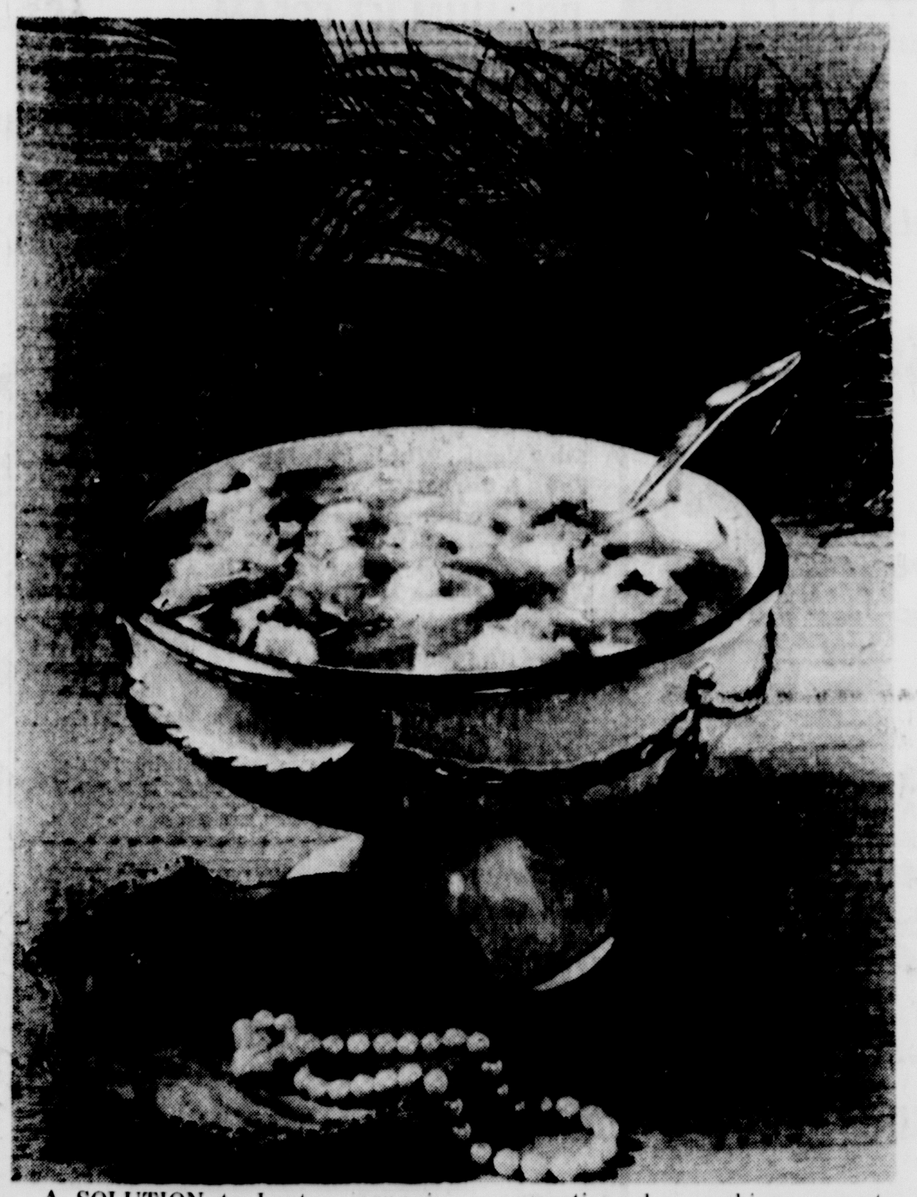
Fiesta Asparagus-Tuna and Noodle Bake can be prepared early in the day and baked just before dinner. A simple fruit gelatin mold and milk or coffee will complete the meal. Home economists also suggest this hearty casserole as a Lenten special.

If you prepare the casserole in a Dutch Oven with a gay Fiesta design, it can go from the oven to the table.

FIESTA ASPARAGUS-TUNA AND NOODLE BAKE
(serves 6)
- 1 pound egg noodles
- 3 tablespoons butter
- salt
- pepper
- ¼ cup Parmesan or Ramano cheese (grated)
- ¼ teaspoon celery seed
- 1 package frozen asparagus spears
- 2 cups flaked tuna, drained
- 2 cups medium thick white sauce
- ¼ cup crumbled American blue cheese

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Quickly stir in butter, salt and pepper until butter is melted. Add grated cheese and celery seed. Correct seasonings. Pour into Dutch Oven.

Cook asparagus spears until tender. Drain. Stir in tuna, white sauce and American blue cheese. Correct seasonings to taste. Make nest in noodles. Pour asparagus-tuna mixture into center of noodles. Bake in casserole at 400° for 20-25 minutes.



A SOLUTION to Lenten menu is Pearl of the Sea Soup which combines exotic spices from the Orient with tender scallops. The delightful concoction also combines, carrots, peppers, onions as well as a host of aromatic spices. The soup is a New England specialty.

East Meets West In Soup Starring Tender Scallops

Take some exotic spices from the Orient and some tender scallops from cold waters off the New England coast and you've got the basic ingredients for a true and lasting flavor friendship. Put them all together in a hearty, aromatic soup, and you've got a solution to Lenten menu problems, too.

It's another indication of what can be done with the versatile ocean scallop, the delightful mollusk that grows plump and sweet.

PEARL OF THE SEA SOUP
- 3 lbs. sea scallops
- 2 quarts water
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup finely chopped carrots
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 2 cooking apples, peeled and grated
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- Pinch of mace
- ¼ teaspoon ground cardamon
- ½ teaspoon ginger
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- Few grains black pepper
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 can (6-oz.) tomato paste
- 5 cups chicken bouillon
- 6 cups hot, fluffy rice

Simmer sea scallops in two quarts boiling water 5 minutes. Remove scallops; save scallop stock. Melt butter in large skillet; add carrots, green pepper, onion and apples. Cook, stirring constantly, 5 minutes. Combine flour, spices and parsley. Add to vegetables; mix well. Add stock slowly. Stir in sugar, pepper, salt, tomato paste and chicken bouillon. Simmer 15 minutes. Add sea scallops; simmer 5 minutes longer. Serve very hot over rice. Makes 12 servings.

BEAU BRUMMEL RIVALS CHANEL IN MOOD

Irate Husband Is Blamed For Sending Insulting Valentines

DEAR HELEN:

This is a letter about the worst Valentine's Day I ever had. Some person with a corrupt mind sent insulting valentines to my wife and neighbors. For some reason (maybe to get me in trouble) I did not receive one of these miserable cards. So, as the only one who didn't get one, I'm blamed as the sender.

Although these cards were probably meant as a joke, they were not taken as such, even by my wife. I don't want my neighbors to go on thinking I sent them, as they are fine people and I'd hate to lose their friendship. Please help me and inform these folks how to find the culprit, so I can walk down the block in peace.—B. V.

DEAR B:

Only the guilty remembers or worries over a back-fired joke for a month. If your conscience is clear—forget it. Likewise, even if it isn't.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I work in a hotel. I have a friend who is a young widow. She is what every man would hope to get for a wife.

She thinks the world of a fellow who visits her a lot. He told her he doesn't have any other girl friends. But he lives in the hotel where I work and I see and hear things. Also he tells her he is broke and not working so he can't buy her gifts or take her out. He works every day, and whoops it up almost every night. Do you think I should tell him I know this widow and he isn't getting away with this?—TOM

DEAR TOM:

Why tell him and give her the straight goods about this crooked roomer (spelled with an "a"), and catch her when she bounces. That's what you want, isn't it?

(Second thought department: Engineer it so she finds out for herself, which shouldn't be hard—with a little ingenuity. By some nutty subconscious transference, people who bring bad news often get blamed or banned for the unhappiness it causes. . . . And that would rule you out as a shoulder to cry on.)—H

DEAR HELEN:

There's only one thing worse than an "Abominable No Man" and that's an "Agreeable Yes Man." I could really sympathize with that gal who said her husband let her make all the decisions and whenever they'd go out he'd say, "I don't care, it's up to you" to whatever she'd suggest doing.

My husband is wonderful and I love him, but just one time I wish he'd make a stand. I ask him if he'd rather have a roast or steak for dinner—"I don't care." I say, "Which suit do you want to wear?"—"It's up to you." I ask, "Shall I wear my red suit or green dress?"—"It's your choice." I wonder which show he wants to see or where he wants to eat out—always the same—"I don't care." He isn't this way at his office, where he makes all sorts of big decisions.

I swear I'm going to ask some day, "Do you want to make a world cruise or go to the lake this summer?"—and hold him to it.

Why are some men so pesky agreeable, when half the fun of doing anything is batting around the pros and cons? — MAM WITH YES MAN

DEAR MAM:

For a woman—yes. But for your man "batting around the pros and cons" is argument, and if he makes a stand and loses, he's lost face. Men don't enjoy lengthy decisions as we females do.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help You. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel, in care of the Independent-Journal.

President Enjoys Sewing, Gardening

Mrs. Jack Smoot, new president of Madera Guild of Sunny Hills, is devoting her full efforts and time this year to the task of leadership in her guild for the work of Sunny Hills.

A member of the guild for seven years, she has served previously as vice president, publicity and recording secretary.

She received her bachelor of arts degree from Miami University. She resides with her husband, Jack, and daughters, Karen, 15, and Cathy, 12, in Kentfield since returning to California after living in the East for several years.

The ability to create in various forms of arts and crafts gives her great pleasure. Sewing, gardening, golf and water skiing with her family are among her other interests.

MRS. JACK SMOOT

Other Madera Guild officers for the new year are Mesdames John Little, vice president; Arthur Croker, treasurer; Jack Campbell, corresponding secretary; Arnold Van Borkum, recording secretary; Frank Wesel, amenities; Jarvis O'Daniels, Bargain Box; Loren W. Tuttle, chaplain, and David Zita, publicity.

The newly elected board was installed at the annual luncheon at the Officers' Club at the Presidio. New members Mesdames Jack Herald and Alex Kazakoff were welcomed.

Swimming Caps Now Resemble Bonnets

Swimming caps are getting fancier and fancier. And, as they do, they become more flattering. One line worth looking at includes caps with brims so that they resemble jockey caps, sou'westers and dust bonnets. Others come covered with flowers and/or petals.

Program To Assist Freshmen, Parents

A guidance program for parents of eighth grade students will be held at 8 p.m. today in the old gymnasium at Novato High School by the high school guidance department.

The program is to acquaint parents of incoming freshmen with the high school program.

Scott Property Due To Go On The Block

The Scott property, 15 acres which were once to be added to Mount Tamalpais State Park, will go on the auction block April 16, unless the state buys the land from the county by that time.

Marin County purchased the land in 1963 to stop development of a subdivision there, but with a tacit agreement that the state would buy it from the county. The state has not yet come through, and on March 4 County Administrator Alan Bruce said the land should be sold to the highest bidder.

Resolution to do this passed by the board of supervisors yesterday with virtually no comment, directs that special notice be sent to Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, saying that if the state finds the money before April 16, the auction will be called off.

Supervisor William A. Gnoss commented that he hoped the sale would bring the county much more than the $54,000 minimum price listed in the resolution. The County purchased the land for $50,000.

'Sound Of Murder' Auditions Announced

Auditions for "The Sound of Murder," next presentation of the Tiburon Cove Players, are slated next Monday and Wednesday at the 41 Main Street Theater, Tiburon, starting at 8 p.m.

Parts are open for all characters, with Dion Chesse serving as director. "The Sound of Murder" will open April 29 in Tiburon.

Suit Attacking Zone Law Held Too Vague By County

A demurrer holding that a suit attacking the county's planned community zoning ordiance, filed by Marin Assn. for Planning and two couples, is too vague and ambiguous to answer was filed by the County of Marin yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Prepared by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, the demurrer also claims insufficient facts are presented to constitute a cause of action. Maloney further contends that the plaintiffs, the association and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Van Der Male and Mr. and Mrs. Hal McIntyre — whose homes are in the Wolfback Ridge area near the proposed Marincello community — fail to identify their property in the suit or explain how it would be affected.

The demurrer asks that the court therefore deny the plaintiff's request.

The suit, believed to be the first such case in California, challenges the legality of planned community zoning by the county. It asks that the planned community zoning portion of Marin County Code be declared unconstitutional and illegal.

Lyric Soprano Due For Debut

Lyric soprano Diane Trethowan, with Arthur Wilson at the piano, will give a debut recital of contemporary songs at 8:30 p.m. on March 26 in the little theater of the California Palace of the Legion of Honor, San Francisco.

This will be the fourth in the 1966 series of the Atheneum Arts Foundation.

Among the Bay Area composers whose works will be performed are Lou Harrison, Gerry Olds, Robert Hughes, Peter Sacco and Jack Goodwin. Songs by Aaron Copland, Ned Rorem and Robert Fairfax Birch will also be heard.

Sound Of Art Series To Feature Guitarist

Classical guitarist Joseph Bacon will perform, and curator Charles Lindstrom of the De Young Museum, San Francisco, will discuss correlations between the music and periods in art history at 8 p.m. Friday at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The program, to be held in the Francis Young Gallery of the center, is the second in the "Sound of Art" series presented by the Marin Society of Artists.

Base Requests Bids

Bids to replace gas mains on Hamilton Air Force Base will be opened on March 31, by the base procurement office.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Everyone Should Be On The Alert For A Malignancy Of The Bowels

VAN DELLEN

More than 76,000 persons develop cancer of the colon and rectum every year. Approximately 42,000 of these men and women will die, making the condition second only to lung cancer (43,000) as a cause of death from malignancies. These statistics are more encouraging than they appear to be because the outlook for colorectal cancers is much better than those developing in the first nine leading organs causing death.

EVERYONE SHOULD be on the alert for this malignancy because the chance for survival is very good when detected early. The most common manifestation is a change in bowel habits. A 56 year old who had been regular all his life consulted his physician because of constipation. This was a new experience for him. The passageway was partially blocked by a tumor.

Other victims develop diarrhea or pass blood or stools of a smaller caliber. Many develop constipation plus colicky abdominal pain—signs of bowel obstruction. Weakness due to anemia also suggests the possibility of a malignancy.

BLEEDING SHOULD never be blamed on hemorrhoids until the rectum and colon have been examined thoroughly. Some polyps of the bowel become malignant and many physicians advise removal of these tumors as a safety precaution. Many wait too long before seeing their physician because they are too embarrased to have the rectum examined.

This is foolish because the longer the delay the more extensive the operation and the greater the chance of not surviving. It has been said that the smallest cancer visible to the eye (one-eighth inch) has spent 70 per cent of its life span. By the time symptoms develop it may be nearing the 85 to 90 per cent mark.

Periodic examinations after 40 help to detect colorectal cancers early provided they include X-rays of the colon as well as proctoscopic and stool studies.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

DAY SLEEPER

V. DeS. writes: I have been on night nursing duty for 17 years but because of illness I had to give up my job. Now I cannot break myself of the habit of sleeping days and staying up all night. Have you any suggestions on making this change work out?

REPLY

Force yourself to stay awake during the day and if your problem is one of readjustment it should be complete in a week. If not, look for some other cause of your insomnia.

JAW LOCKING

E. T. writes: Is there any way to prevent the jaws from locking when I yawn?

REPLY

Stifle the yawn as much as possible. Meanwhile, consult an orthopedic specialist to find out whether the capsule surrounding this joint can be strengthened.

SHOULDER PROBLEM

Jane writes: I am 15 years old and have big, square shoulders for a girl. Could they be made small and round through an operation?

REPLY

No, but don't be concerned, soon you will grow up to your shoulders.

RUPTURED VEIN

Mrs. E writes: What should be done when a vein breaks and no doctor is available?

REPLY

When a vein ruptures in the leg, for example, cover the bleeding site with a bandage and apply pressure over the spot with a thumb.

Board Orders County Study Of Sewerage

A study of sewer and septic tank needs and problems, county-wide, will be undertaken by the San Francisco engineering firm of Brown and Caldwell, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

Total cost will be $81,000, Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows told the board. Of that, $8,000 will be contributed jointly by the Stinson Beach County Water District, the Bolinas Public Utilities District and the Bolinas Beach Public Utility District for an intense study of the area around Bolinas Lagoon.

The county has appropriated $40,000 for its share, and the rest, $33,000, will have to be put up next year.

Barrows said he had hoped a similar intensive study could be done on Richardson Bay, but that two districts, Richardson Bay Sanitary and Tamalpais Sanitary, had refused to share in the cost.

Film On Congo Due Narration By Explorer

Lewis Cotlow, explorer who has traveled in 109 countries and on 12 major expeditions, will appear at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Olney Hall, College of Marin, in Kentfield, to narrate his color film, "The Congo."

In the film, the Congo is depicted as the key to the future of Central Africa, and the tribal system of the Congo as the key to understanding that area.

Cotlow, in his ravels, has specialized on studying primative people in remote areas, before their cultures are changed by civilization. The explorer has observed the Congo over 20 years and recently returned from Stanleyville and the rebellious northeast part of the former Belgian colony.

Tribes shown in the movie include the Pygmy, Mangbetu, Watusi and Wagenia. Some were photographed for the first time and had never before been visited by white men.

The showing tomorrow is jointly sponsored by the Associated Students at the college and by the Explorers Club of San Francisco.

Car Bids Procedure Question By Board

Two Marin County supervisors yesterday sharply questioned Public Works Director Donald R. Frost about procedures in calling for bids for automobiles and heavy construction equipment.

Board Chairman Byron W. Leydecker and Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said they wondered whether bid specification were being written in such a way as to keep some companies from bidding.

Leydecker raised the question when the board was asked to approve a series of bids for purchase of trucks and automobiles.

Ames Ford Sales of San Rafael offered a nine-passenger station wagon at $2,493.85, but Purchasing Agent John M. Hettrich recommended purchase of a car from Jim Rose Plymouth of Petaluma instead at $2,636.42, saying the Ford did not meet specification.

"What was the difference?" Leydecker asked.

"It's the wheelbase. We've had trobule in the past," Frost answered.

"How much longer are our specifications?" Leydecker persisted.

"Three inches," Frost said.

"I submit we don't have anybody in county service who can tell the difference in three inches of wheelbase. I can't," said Leydecker. Frost contended steriff's deputies could tell.

Kettenhofen continued by asking about purchase of a loader-backhoe. The two lowest bids of six were thrown out for not meeting specifications. The recommended bid, by Contractor's Machinery Co., San Francisco, was for $15,858.

Berglund Tractor and Equipment Co., Santa Rosa, bid $11,458. Frost said the Berglund equipment would be suitable for gardening, not for heavy road work. He reminded the board that earlier he had asked the supervisors to reject bids of about $20,000 on similar equipment.

The board members agreed to accept all the recommendations, but asked Frost for care in writing specifications.

Automobile purchases awarded were to DeLong Chevrolet, San Rafael, for a four-wheel-drive station wagon, $3,065.71, and a stake truck, $2,357.49; Ames Ford for a truck cab and chassis, $3,902.55, two four-door sedans, $2,060.28 each, and three pick-up trucks, $2,014.16 each; J and B Ford, Corte Madera, for a truck cab and chassis with special body, $3,355.16; Larry Brink Rambler, Mill Valley, two compact station wagons, $1,993.87 each, and Ted Schuman Chevrolet, Novato, four compact sedans, $1,825.16 each.

Also awarded was a contract for lubricating equipment, to be mounted on a county truck. Alemite Co., San Francisco, was low bidder of three at $5,625.14.

Kentfield Thief Steals Copy Unit

Loss of a $400 photo copying machine in a burglary of Wolfe Grade Elementary School, Kentfield, was reported yesterday by sheriff's officers.

George R. Stratton, school principal, told deputies entry was by prying a screen and opening a sliding glass door of the school's faculty room during the weekend. He said the machine and about $30 worth of supplies were taken from his office. Also missing are keys to a soft drink machine, officers said.

Frank Reis, manager of Gallinas Village Sanitary District, told deputies that burglars entered the district's treatment plant office on Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, and made off with a table model radio and a set of wrenches.

MUSEUM'S NEWEST RESIDENT

An un-named, six-day-old baby seal is shown as it was fed by a young admirer yesterday at San Rafael's Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum, where a well-meaning couple brought it after picking the animal off a beach near Bolinas Saturday. While accepting such gifts, museum director Clara Evans warns that it is a mistake—and illegal—to pick up "abandoned" baby animals. They may not be abandoned at all, she explains. Curator Lloy Smalley, Susan Brink and Candice McClain look on as Craig McClain (whose hand alone shows here) feeds the newcomer.

Lagunitas Resets Loan, Bonds Try

With board president Leslie S. Stone absent, the Lagunitas School District Board last night formally voted to put a $200,000 bond issue and $400,000 state loan—identical to that defeated by voters Feb. 15—on the June 7 primary ballot.

Board members agreed to call the new vote within hours after the ballots were counted from the first one. They had since reaffirmed this intention, but last night was the first time they had all the legal documents to make it official.

The board also received a letter from the county counsel's office saying the district could, if it wished, begin negotiations on a school site before the vote with the understanding that they would be dropped if the measure were defeated again.

A "work session" of the board and the newly reactivated citizen site selection committee is scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the school. Supt. Marshall J. McCuniff said this session may lead to a decision on whether the district will seek a site other than the one in central Woodacre which became the key issue in the Feb. 15 election campaign.

Eighth grade teacher Harry F. Roche, chairman of the teachers salary committee, submitted a proposed salary scale for the next school year which would run from $5,700 yearly to $10,800. Present scale runs from $5,200 to $10,300.

McCuniff said the board took no action, but agreed to have another "work session" at 7:30 p.m. March 29 at the school to study what other districts are doing about salaries this year. The board may act at its next regular session April 12, he said.

Most of last night's three-hour session was devoted to a report by three third grade teachers, Mrs. Lydia Smith, Mrs. Jesse Richmond and Mrs. Maxine Cantrell, on the third grade curriculum.

School Grading Bids High But Work Ordered

San Anselmo School District trustees last night awarded contract for grading at Hidden Valley School for more than $6,000 over what architect Martin Rosse had estimated it would cost.

Rosse had estimated the job at $12,760. Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael was the lowest of five bidders at $18,978. Other bids ranged as high as $30,996.

Supt. Stephen Parodi said Rosse explained the difference between the bids and estimate as due to the contractor's difficulty in getting rid of the dirt which must be excavated.

Trustees heard salary requests from district teachers and classified employees. Teachers asked that the present range of $5,292-$10,308 be hiked to $5,508-$11,804. Classified employees asked for an over-all seven and one-half per cent increase. Trustees took no action on the proposals.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

1. Granted sabbathical leaves to Brookside School teachers Mary Ungersma and Stanley Rutherford. Mrs. Ungersma, an English teacher, will tour Europe, particularly the Shakespeare country of England. Rutherford, a social studies teacher, will study geography for a semester, then tour the Orient.
2. Accepted the resignation, effective Friday, of Jean Courier, first grade teacher at Brookside, and appointed Helen Milstein as long-term substitute.
3. Hired four resource teachers for district schools: Gloria Miller, Wade Thomas; Lorraine Valendra, Brookside; Julia Wigell, Sleepy Hollow, and Jean Yates, Isabel Cook; hired four library aides: Margaret Herbert, Avon Nelson, Margaret Olson, and C. Louise Prange; hired Norma Bullock to run the language, reading and listening center at Brookside School on a part-time basis. The salaries are all paid with federal funds.
4. Applied for $4,500 under the National Defense Education Act to be used with district matching funds to purchase social studies equipment.
5. Set the summer school session for June 22 through July 22. The school principal has not been named.

Trustee Franklin Latcham was absent.

BETTER PHONE SERVICE SET FOR MARSHALL

Residents of Marshall are to get better telephone service, and pay more for it.

The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday authorized Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. to establish a special rate area at Marshall, within the Point Reyes exchange.

Present suburban services to the area will be replaced by urban grades of service, at higher charges but without additional mileage charges which are included at present.

Rate for a one-party business phone will go from $5.80 per month plus mileage charges to $7.30 per month. That for a one-party residential line will go from $3.70 plus mileage to $5.20. Farmer line will go from 70 cents to $1.

The new rates will be effective whenever the telephone company establishes the new service.

Zink Named Acting Chief In Sausalito

Lt. Theodore C. Zink will become acting chief of Sausalito police on departure of Chief Kenneth H. Huck, the Sausalito City Council agreed last night in a discussion in which Mayor Jan Paul Dyk complained that he heard of Huck's resignation on the radio before receiving official word of it.

"This is sort of second hand," complained Dyk.

He requested the council to consider having two councilmen, the city manager and heads of department meet once a month to try to create closer communications.

Councilmen agreed a new police chief should be sought at once. Though City Mgr. Charles A. Brown sought a higher salary for the new man, the council said Brown should advertise at the present $782-$950 salary range. Huck, who is to become police chief at Union City, Alameda County, now receives the top of $950.

Zink has been on the department five and one-half years and has been lieutenant for a year. His father, Harold Zink, and brother, Tom Zink, are both in law enforcement work, the father at San Quentin Prison and the brother as a Sausalito patrolman.

Councilman Melvin S. Wax reported that he, Councilman Alexander R. Imlay, Dr. John S. Wellington, Brown and Huck met last week to discuss the question of the police stopping people to demand identification—particularly teen-agers and Negroes.

"We were assured by the police chief that being a Negro has no bearing whatsoever on whether or not a person is stopped and asked for identification," said Wax.

The subject came to the council when Wellington said that his son and three friends, one a Negro from Marin City, had been detained on Buckley Avenue by police and harrassed. He said the identification checks were a "systematic harrassment."

The council took no action on a regular foot patrol in the commercial area because of the upcoming police command change. Councilmen said foot patrol will continue on weekends and the proposal will be reviewed when a new chief is hired.

Default Is Declared In Contract

Directors of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District after a long discussion last night, declared a default in the $373,816 sewer improvement contract with Kirkwood-Bly of Santa Rosa.

The contractor has stopped work, contending that the forced main across Gallinas Creek is not properly engineered. Trouble with the crossing has delayed completion of the Gallinas Village system for six months.

District secretary Helen Foulkes reported the contractor offered last night to raise the line, repair leaks with sheet piling and cement for $8,000 extra. But he also wanted costs for repairs of any additional breaks that might develop.

The contractor will have seven days from notification of last night's action to return to the job. If neither the contractor nor his bonding company takes over in that time, the district can get another firm for the job and charge the cost against Kirkwood-Bly, Mrs. Foulkes said.

Directors will meet at 7:30 p.m., March 29 to take whatever additional steps are necessary.

Burglary Trial Slated

Jury trial for Herman Joseph Sanchez, 20, was scheduled yesterday in Marin Superior Court for April 25. The youth, of 5 West End Avenue, San Rafael, is charged with the burglary of an apartment house storeroom at 103 Ross Street, San Rafael, last Nov. 9.

Non-Profit TV Cable Approved In Sausalito

Sausalito City Council last night introduced an ordinance which will grant a franchise for the city's first non-profit, subscriber-owned cable television system.

Sausalito Communications Service is to receive a franchise to serve the entire city. It will have an antenna site on Mount Beacon on Wolfback Ridge and plans to charge $135 per hookup for one receiver and a maximum of $5 per month.

Surplus funds will be returned to the community in the form of civic projects through the Sausalito Foundation.

Asked by Councilman Earl F. Dunphy if there is a chance of the company providing free television service to schools, city hall and the public library, secretary Peter F. Sloss said the founders favor doing this but there might be a "remoteness" problem. The council agreed that the company must post a $5,000 bond.

Councilmen also considered application from Sausalito Community TV System for expansion of its franchise to cover most of the city. It now covers about one-half. The application, by Royce Howard, was continued to April 5, when another application for franchise is also to be considered. There are now three franchises in the city.

The council authorized a reward up to $100 for arrest and conviction of persons caught dumping illegally on city or private property, and said the same reward applies to persons found destroying property such as traffic signs.

The city has been plagued by people dumping refuse on streets and vacant properties. "You wouldn't believe it unless you go up on Rodeo Avenue," said City Mgr. Charles A. Brown.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

1. Went on record favoring expansion of Mount Tamalpais State Park and asked the city recreation commission to study the county-wide parks bond issue.
2. Accepted low bid of $11,988 by A. J. Bresnan Co., San Rafael, for reconstruction of shoulders on Easterby, Turney, Pine and Johnson streets and catch basin at Caledonia and Pine streets.
3. Asked City Manager Brown to report in 30 days on the Wolfback Ridge water supply.
4. Re-introduced an ordinance providing a tax on transient occupancy in hotels and motels.
5. Directed Brown to recommend by April 5 what to do about the traffic problem at Bridgeway and Harbor Drive, Councilman Melvin S. Wax saying the situation has been aggravated badly by the new Flea Market in Marinship.
6. Agreed to permit the Marina Vista subdivider to omply in part with underground utility requirements on Nevada Street which will result in nine utility poles, a reduction of one.
7. Heard from Wax that the central waterfront coordinating committee is seeking how to involve the community in the waterfront study so it will have a voice in planning.

Judge Orders Investigation Of Wolden's Assessments

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Superior Court judge ordered the Board of Supervisors yesterday to investigate immediately the assessments made by Assessor Russell Wolden, who is being tried on bribery charges.

Justice A. F. Bray rejected a contention that such an investigation now would interfere with Wolden's right to a fair trial.

"Nobody seems concerned about the people of San Francisco," the judge said. "Motion denied."

Wolden is charged with accepting bribes to reduce property valuations for some large firms and thereby reduce their taxes.

In granting a writ of mandate asked by a group of attorneys, the judge said: "It has been an abuse of discretion for the board to sit back and do nothing where there has been such strong indications of under-assessments."

"The board has the duty to do whatever it can to recover unpaid taxes," he continued.

"It seems to me that the Grand Jury transcript shows probable cause for an investigation to be made to protect the people of San Francisco," he said.

While Judge Bray was making that ruling, two women were testifying in another court that Wolden paid a large department store's charges with $100 bills.

Ramona Hood, former City of Paris department store cashier, told the court Wolden had paid $3,500 worth of bills to the store with the large denomination greenbacks.

She said she had never seen bills paid that way.

James M. MacInnis, defense attorney, asked if she knew Wolden by sight and whether she had any conversation with him. The witness said she did and added, "I just told him how beautiful all that money was."

Another witness was Anita Sutter, a former City of Paris office worker, who told of receiving $1,000 in payment from Wolden. She also declared she recognized the assessor.

Lynch Loses Ground On Marijuana Issue

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Unwilling to suggest they're trying to tell voters what to do, assemblymen have turned down a resolution attacking a current drive to have marijuana legalized.

Action in the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee Tuesday was a rebuff to Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch. He had said in a written statement, "I know of no legitimate reason for legalizing marijuana . . . I believe it would be of immense value for the Assembly to enunciate a similar position."

But the pro-lynch measure's sponsor, Assemblyman George Willson, D-Huntington Park, got only three of the six votes needed for committee approval. Four assemblymen opposed him.

The defeat came even after he agreed to amend out a phrase urging "the voters to overwhelmingly reject" the current initiative campaign. If its sponsors can obtain the signatures of 460,000 registered voters, their idea would go before voters this year.

It would set up a State Department of Marijuana Control, governing the legal growing, use, possession and sale of the drug, which is not legally classified as a narcotic.

Ironically, the attorney for the pro-marijuana groups was testifying just across the hall before the Senate Judiciary Committee. It was investigating whether laws are needed to control the experimental drug LSD.

James R. White III of San Francisco, who didn't attend the nearby marijuana hearing, said he feels LSD isn't dangerous if properly used.

Other witnesses, including doctors, said high school and college students are highly interested in LSD. As they spoke, visiting school children watched from the balcony.

Lynch, in another written statement, said "All evidence gathered by my office indicates that the use of LSD presents a serious problem. A number of young people are using this drug in an effort to escape from the realities and problems of society."

The Redwood Region of Northern California is a narrow coastal strip, never more than 30 miles wide, extending from southern Monterey County north to the Oregon border.

Action Conference Slated Saturday By Marin Youth

Four months of planning by a group of Marin teen-agers and educators will come to a climax Saturday when the Marin Youth for Action conference is held at the College of Marin, Kentfield.

The session, whose backers hope it will attract 1,000 Marin County teen-agers and adults during the day, will be an outgrowth of the Governor's Youth Conference held last November in Sacramento.

It will start with a 9 a.m. opening session, at which speakers will include Thomas W. Braden, president of the state Board of Education, and will continue through a 6 p.m. banquet in the Student Center and an 8:30 p.m. dance at the gymnasium.

Discussion groups on five topics will fill the rest of the day, and the people in charge hope the conference will spark ideas which will affect teen-agers for months to come.

Registration for the sessions will take place from 8 to 9 a.m. in the college's physical education court. The Terra Linda High School Band will play for the last 20 minutes of that hour.

The opening session, in the gymnasium, will be led by Tamalpais High School senior Joe Friedman, conference chairman. Rev. Thomas I. Kennedy, pastor of St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael, will give the invocation.

Betts Will Seek Another Term As Treasurer

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—State Treasurer Bert A. Betts announced Monday he would seek a third term.

While there had been no doubt that Betts would decide to seek another four years in office, he was the last of the present Democratic incumbents to make the announcement. Betts was elected in 1958 when the Democrats swept all constitutional offices but secretary of state.

Betts is the youngest man ever chosen for a constitutional office and the first from San Diego County in this century. Only three other men have served as treasurer for eight years, as Betts will have at the end of this year, and would be only the second man to hold the post more than eight years if he is elected to another term.

Betts, now 42, has the task, among other things, of marketing state bonds, with sales running more than $500 million a year. He has been credited with getting favorable interest rates for California by scheduling the bond sales properly.

Gas Customers Will Get Refunds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's gas corporations will refund $2.4 million to their customers because of a federal decision, the State Public Utilities Commission said yesterday.

The money results from the Federal Power Commission ruling March 1 in the Amerada Petroleum Case. Amerada gas is supplied to El Paso Natural Gas Co. which supplies West Coast firms.

Exact date for the refunds is to be determined later.

Indictment Charges Honda Price Fixing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—American Honda Motor Co., its Southern California Dealers Assn., and six men are under indictment by a federal grand jury, charged with conspiracy to fix prices on motorcycles, parts and accessories in the Los Angeles area.

The indictment handed up yesterday charges that since the association was organized in 1962 by Los Angeles area dealers, the association and American Honda have fixed and maintained uniform retail prices.

State Profit Unusual On Tidelands Lease

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The state lands commission has approved a contract with the Atlantic Refining Co. for oil drilling on tidelands off Long Beach which would return 101 per cent of the profit from the operation to the state.

These profits would amount to an estimated $70 million over the next 35 years. The commission indicated the unusual bid of more than 100 per cent of the profit came about because the Atlantic firm needed a handy guaranteed supply of crude oil for a refinery it operates in the area.

TELEVISION REVIEW

National Sacrifice: A People In Debt

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —"CBS Reports" last night presented a horror story: A one-hour documentary about consumer credit in America.

The television program was pegged to the angle that indebtedness and credit are growing explosively in the nation, and that 190 million Americans owe about $315 billion—"or more than $1,600 for every man, woman and child in the United States."

The discerning, concise and even humorous hour, which handled a complex subject on both an informational and human level, also did not lose sight of the point that what people may be sacrificing is more than money—that national values are at stake.

Strangely, however, the program likewise maintained that common, yet extraordinary attitude of persons who exclaim great fear over personal indebtedness, yet do not seem fit to relate it to parallel practices by municipal or even national governments.

The hour also left itself open to reply on at least one other point: While taking a delightful and proper swipe at the offensive ABC-TV series, "Supermarket Sweep" — in which people race up and down market aisles to see how many goods they can collect in a given time—it was suggested that this show had hardly raised an eyebrow among viewers or critics.

Unless my memory has failed completely, "Supermarket Sweep" most definitely caused raised eyebrows among some newspaper and magazine writers. At the risk of necessary immodesty, I make reference, for example, to our Dec. 21, 1965, review of the premiere of "Supermarket Sweep," which referred to it, in part, as "a series that promotes and encourages greed, and the notion of something for nothing . . . ."

So much for quibbling. For far and away the greater part of the hour last night, "CBS Reports: I.O.U. $315,000,000,000" was lively journalism, wonderfully narrated by Alexander Kendrick, whose dry Yankee humor would serve him well in movie roles. His scenes as a credit card owner making the rounds were heady, high-flying stuff.

The program dealt not only with the gorgeous escapism of credit cards, but with commercials for loans, and with mortgages, car payments, banks, businesses—and the interest accruing to each of these parts of our lives. There were interviews with banking and business executives, experts and even a loan shark.

There also was a note about a proposal by Sen. Paul Douglas for a "truth in lending" bill which would make mandatory a clear statement of true annual interest rates. A number of those persons who spoke during the hour agreed that many consumers are just plain ignorant on such matters and don't even know what interest they are paying.

Minorities Happier To Train For Work

SACRAMENTO (CNS — Unemployed minority race members are more willing to accept retraining opportunities to fit them for new occupations than other members of the labor force, the state department of employment reported.

The department made its report on the basis of a survey covering 9097 persons, a 1 per cent sampling of all persons who filed new claims for unemployment insurance during the 12 month ended with October, 1964. The training referred to in the survey is that provided under the federal manpower development and training act.

Officer In Viet Nam Promoted To Major

William H. Dodd, whose wife, Connie, and mother, Mrs. Dessie Dodd, live at 260 Canal Street, San Rafael, was promoted to major in Viet Nam recently while assigned to the Saigon Logistics Area.

Major Dodd, chief of technical operations with the area, entered the Army in 1950 and arrived in Viet Nam in January of this year.

Candidates' Night Set In Sausalito

Five of the six candidates for Sausalito City Council have agreed to participate in a candidates' night sponsored by the Sausalito Woman's Club at 8 p.m., March 24, at the club at 120 Central Avenue.

The sole female candidate, Mrs. Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford) has not responded to the invitation, according to Mrs. Walter Washbourne, club civics chairman.

Candidates who have accepted are Jan Paul Dyk and Earl F. Dunphy, incumbents, and Matthew J. Perry, Serge Trubach, and S. Robert Politzer.

Mrs. Richard Phillips will be moderator and Mrs. John Alexander, timekeeper. Refreshments will be served afterwards by Mrs. Mary Lou Perrone.

Each candidate will be given eight minutes to speak to four questions. They are:

1. How would you propose to strengthen the policies of the police department to achieve more comprehensive and greater public protection?

2. Are you satisfied with the present chain of command in our city government? What revisions would you suggest?

3. What is the order of importance of capital expenditures such as library, sea wall, water mains? How should they be financed?

4. What do you feel is the most important problem facing Sausalito today and how would you propose to handle it?

Mother Finds Young Girl Stabbed, Choked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A mother found the body of her pretty daughter yesterday — bound, gagged and kneeling beside a bed. The girl had been stabbed and strangled. There were signs of a struggle.

Martha Marie Smith, 19, had been stabbed repeatedly in the face, throat and chest. With her head resting on the bed, she was wearing only a negligee.

Nearby was a copy of John LeCarre's best-selling thriller, "The Spy Who Came In From the Cold."

Mrs. Alice Renner, the mother, drove to the girl's apartment in the Sunset District when she became alarmed because the daughter had not telephoned her since Sunday.

A landlord let her into the apartment.

Neighbors said they had heard no unusual sounds. Police noted a tilted picture and jostled shades.

The girl, a clerk at the Levi Strauss and Co. men's wear offices, was last seen by neighbors at 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Marin Youth Groups To Discuss Merger

The session is expected to formalize the merger, which was informally agreed upon last month. Other items on the agenda will include choosing a name for the combined group, election of its officers, and discussion of its constitution or by-laws.

Don Mason Proving To Be Quite A Giant Bargain

By JACK STEVENSON

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants' batboy and Don Mason both wear No. 41 on their uniforms. It's hard to tell them apart.

Yet the 155-pound Mason, with only one year in organized baseball, could be on the National League team's roster for 1966.

The quick, scrappy infielder could also become one of the club's biggest bargains. Already the 21-year-old from Newton, Mass., has three hits in seven times at bat in spring training games.

Scout Buddy Kerr, a former Giant infielder, spotted the youngster in the New York-Pennsylvania League last season and recommended him both for hitting and fielding.

So when the Washington Senators failed to protect him against the major league draft, the Giants plucked Mason at an $8,000 price.

If he doesn't stick with the 25-man regular season squad, the Senators get the left-handed swinger back and repay only $4,000. Right now it looks as if the teen-aged-appearing Mason will do his playing in the National League.

He started yesterday's San Francisco exhibition against the Chicago Cubs at second base as the Giants ran their spring record to 4-0 with a 6-2 victory.

In his only appearance against southpaw Bob Hendley, Mason drew a walk but he belted a run producing double off right-hander Cal Koonce in the sixth and later scored.

Mason stands 5-foot 10½ and says, "Don't forget that half inch." He was signed out of Parsons College in Iowa where he went on a baseball scholarship. One reason he liked the Senators was that they didn't suggest he might be too small for the pro game.

Washington gave him a modest bonus to sign and he hit .285 with 18 homers in the New York-Pennsylvania League last season.

The senators put him on their Class AAA Hawaii roster figuring probably no major league club would draft him with the knowledge they'd have to keep him on the roster.

Since being organized in 1961, the Senators hadn't lost a player to the big league draft. This time they did.

The youngster isn't over-awed but nevertheless is pleased with the development.

"I didn't think I had a good enough year to be drafted," he says. "And there is so much talent on this club, it's an honor to be playing with these fellows."

Young Hal Lanier appears to have second base nailed down, so Mason may get a try also at shortstop, a position he played in high school and in his first collegiate year. At that spot, the Giants could be more in need of help.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

Pirates Came Close To Title, Improved Marin's Cage Image

MARIN COUNTY'S high school basketball image improved by leaps and bounds and a few bounces last weekend, thanks to the commendable showing by Coach Carl J. Brown's Sir Francis Drake Pirates in the Tournament of Champions.

In past years most of our teams from the Bounty County damn near got themselves killed over in Berkeley. It was like sending a five-year-old out to play on the double line. "See if you can run between those two headlights, Junior."

"Hey, Mack, you from Marin?"

"Who me? No, suh. Isn't this where they're holding the Free Speech rally? Ah'm just here to protest boys in short pants dribbling in public."

THE EAST BAY and San Francisco teams, particularly, did everything but pants our kids. We Marin writers didn't need score books; we could remember our teams' scoring. Point by point.

Finally I got to screaming to Marin League bosses to quit the T of C and play with kids our own size. Like Dominican and Mills. But they wouldn't listen to me. "It's good experience," they argued. So is a hanging.

BUT LAST week Brown's Bucs changed my mind. They not only won the consolation title, they could have won the whole shootin' match with a little luck.

Look at it this way: They lost to McClymonds by only four points in the first round, and McClymonds lost in the finals by only two points.

Except for two bad passes late in the game which McClymonds intercepted to score go-ahead points, Drake would have won. And from there, who knows? The Pirates definitely were capable of going all the way.

I think the Pirates' key to success—two tourney wins in three games and a 21-5 record on the year—was their ability to make the opposition play their slow, deliberate game. Racehorse teams couldn't run against this cool team. " "We made them play our game all year," said Brown.

The Pirates surprised a lot of people, including me. They were just a few points away from a championship and, like I said, they certainly improved the Marin basketball image.

ALSO, THE all-tournament selection of Pirate Bob Tobin helped our cause. He is the first Marin cager to gain that honor since 1958.

ONE FINAL WORD: Drake's victory in rooting section competition gave the Marin Athletic League its seventh spirit trophy, better than any other league in the 20-year history of the tournament. It was Drake's third spirit trophy in three tries; San Rafael has two and Tam and Redwood one each.

SIGHT OF THE WEEK at the T of C: Smack dab in the middle of Drake's prize-winning cheering section were two big boys named John Balzan and Joe Cunningham, rooting like crazy for the Pirates. Balzan and Cunningham are all-star athletes for SAN RAFAEL High.

J. C. SPORTSWIRE, the publication devoted to California junior colleges, last week ranked Riverside City College the top team in the state with City College of San Francisco rated second.

Pretty smart figuring, since Riverside defeated CCSF in the state finals Saturday night.

Army Tops USF Dons By 80-63

NEW YORK (AP) — Wishful thinking doesn't win basketball games but Army's Bill Helkie was a coach's dream come true.

Helkie, a near-sighted upperclassman, triggered the torrid-shooting Cadets into the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament with a brilliant 34-point performance that cut down San Francisco's tall Dons 80-63 last night.

Resurgent Villanova, sparked by Bill Melchionni's 30 points, beat off a fierce Boston College press 86-85 in the second game of the Madison Square Garden doubleheader, joining Army, New York University and top-seeded Brigham Young in tomorrow night's semifinal round.

The Cadets, dwarfed by San Francisco's 6-8, 6-6, 6-5 front line, ran away from the Dons by hitting 27 of 39 shots from the field, with Helkie's 15-for-20 jump shooting leading the way.

"It reminded me of the time when I was a sophomore at Ohio State and we shot 16 for 19 in the first half of a game in California," said Bob Knight, the Cadets' intense first-year coach who played on the Buckeyes' 1960 NCAA title team.

"It's funny, but I was thinking about the game today and figuring how nice it would be if something like that happened against San Francisco."

Helkie is what happened to the stunned Dons in the decisive opening half as the Cadets, without a starter over 6-foot-3, rolled to a 39-24 lead. Helkie canned his first six shots and made 12 of 15 before intermission en route to topping his career high of 27 points set in last Saturday's first-round victory over Manhattan.

The Cadets, meanwhile, stymied USF star Joe Ellis — who didn't score a field goal until the second half was 3½ minutes old — outfought 6-8 Irwin Mueller off the boards and shot into the NIT semifinals for the third straight year.

"They came at us hard and we lost our composure," said Dons' Coach Pete Peletta. "I still felt we could win it after the first half, but we couldn't get together. And we didn't do the job on Helkie."

Helkie, who picked up the scoring slack when the Cadets lost 6-foot-6 Mike Silliman two months ago, began wearing contact lenses midway in his junior season. "I just could not see well enough without them to play basketball," the 6-3 Cadet from South Bend, Ind., said.

Army, now 18-6, meets Brigham Young and Villanova, 17-10, plays NYU in tomorrow night's semifinals.

The Wildcats, beaten by St. John's in last year's NIT title game, edged Bob Cousy's Boston College club in a frantic finish after the Eagles' zone press and soph Steve Adelman's outside shooting closed a seven-point gap in the closing minutes.

Clay-Chuvalo 'Title' Fight Going To Be Financial Flop

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cassius Clay's last fight in possibly a couple of years could turn out to be a financial bomb for the champion.

As the heavyweight champion (except in World Boxing Association territory) prepared to leave Miami for a fateful meeting with his Louisville draft board tomorrow, most of the reports on finances concerning his defense against George Chuvalo seemed to be gloomy.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers to be called, could wind up with a gross purse of about $71,500 before taxes for his 15-rounder with the Canadian champion at the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, March 29. And taxes could chop that figure to $40,000 or so.

There will be no radio broadcast of the bout and the British Broadcasting Coropration, which had contracted for a live telecast of the projected Clay-Ernie Terrell fight, said yesterday it was not interested in the Clay-Chuvalo fight for an expensive relay by Early Bird Satellite.

Closed circuit television provides the biggest part of the loot for heavyweight title fights these days but the pickings may be small for this 5-1 and out (get 5-1 on Chuvalo but can't bet Clay) bout which has been denounced as a mismatch by several boxing organizations.

Main Bout, Inc., which owns the ancillary rights including closed circuit television, originally had hoped to have more than 200 outlets for the television. Mike Malitz, the executive major theater chains which vice-president of MBI, said the agreed to take the Clay-Terrell fight, have dropped out of the agreement.

MBI would end up with just a handful of outlets. It could be that the promotion's share of the theater-TV gross may not be more than $100,000.

The live fight in the Maple Leafs Gardens doesn't figure to gross more than $200,000 at prices ranging from $7 to $100.

Clay is contracted for 50 per cent of everything. Half of a $200,000 gate would be $100,000 Canadian—or $93,000 American. Half of of $100,000 ancillary pot would make his total $143,000.

From this $143,000 Clay has to pay half to the Louisville sponsoring group which manages him. The Louisville group pays expenses.

So the unbeaten 24-year-old champ would have $71,500—before taxes—for his end. That's not chicken feed but it's a sharp drop from the purses he received for his two fights with Sonny Liston and one with Floyd Patterson.

Ring Magazine estimates Clay's purses for those three fights at $360,000, $480,000 and $692,000.

Clay plans to appeal his 1-A draft status in Louisville tomorrow. If he accepts military service, he'll be out of action for at least two years. If he asks to be classed as a conscientous objector—and this is granted—he'll still be out of boxing for a couple of years in non-military service.

It was his statement following his draft reclassification from 1-Y to 1-A that apparently triggered some of the earlier cancellations of the Theater-TV.

"I've got nothing against them Viet Congs," Clay told newsmen.

There were indications that various veterans groups, incensed by the comment, might boycott theaters and arenas carrying the fight.

Warriors Hopes Fade As Hawks Win 110-109

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks all but clinched a spot in the National Basketball Association playoffs last night by staving off a rally and beating San Francisco, 110-109.

The victory pushed the third-place Hawks two games ahead of San Francisco's Warriors in the NBA Western Division. Only the top three clubs in each division reach the playoffs.

St. Louis has five games to play and San Francisco three.

San Francisco, which had trailed by as much as 14 points, rallied unsuccessfully late in the game. Rick Barry got the last Warrior basket with just 33 seconds left and the Hawks maintained ball control from there to the final horn.

Alex Hannum, Warrior coach, said he would protest an award by referee Norm Drucker after Hawk Zelmo Beaty and Warrior Nate Thurmond shoved each other. Drucker called it a double foul and gave each a free throw. Beaty connected and Thurmond missed.

Hannum contends free throws should not be awarded in double personals.

Barry topped scorers with 41 points. Beaty got 27 and Cliff Hagan 24 for the Hawks.

The same two teams play again tomorrow at San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Seals Bounce Back, Trip Vancouver Hockeymen 4-1

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—Now that the San Francisco Seals have their full team again, they could sneak into the Western Hockey League playoffs yet.

Playing coach Charlie Burns yesterday performed in his second game after being out of action 32 games with a back injury. And Wayne Maxner returned from Boston of the National Hockey League.

They each had two assists as the Seals took a solid 4-1 victory at Vancouver to sneak to within segen points of fourth-place Seattle. They call on the Totems tomorrow night in a contest that looms as a crucial one.

Young Doug Favell manned the nets for San Francisco and almost had a shutout until Howie Hughes scored with less than four minutes to go. Favell stopped 17 shots in the third period and 27 during the night.

Showmen Grant And Wills Come To Terms

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Night club entertainers Maury Wills and Jim Grant have decided there's no business like baseball. Bill White, on the other hand, is giving the St. Louis Cardinals the business.

Wills and Grant finally agreed to new contracts yesterday, ending extended holdouts and leaving five stars, all pitchers, unsigned — Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, Jim Maloney of Cincinnati and Juan Marichal and Bob Shaw of San Francisco.

White, traded by the Cardinals to Philadelphia during the winter, hit three consecutive home runs in the Phillies' 8-7 exhibition victory over Boston.

Wills, who originally sought $100,000, signed a contract reportedly calling for $75,000. The Los Angeles shortstop also reportedly was told that if he produces as expected hwill receive as much as an extra $10,000.

The 33-year-old speedster, who returned a week ago from Japan where he toured with his night club act, said he thinks he can get ready to go full speed within three weeks.

Grant, whose act was billed as Mudcat and the Kittens, flew to Orlando, Fla., and promptly signed for a figure said to be between $35,000 and $38,000.

He received $21,000 last year when he won 21 games for American League champion Minnesota and originally wanted $50,000 for 1966.

The right-hander said he was anxious to get into pitching condition after his three-week holdout although he is in good shape from his singing and dancing routine.

White, meanwhile, displayed excellent condition with his volley of home runs. All three blasts came with the bases empty and sailed over the right field fence in Winter Haven, Fla.

The 32-year-old White represents one-third of the three-fourths of the infield that the Cardinals traded away one year after they won the World Series. The other two are shortstop Dick Groat and third baseman Ken Boyer.

The Cardinals made the deals hoping to improve their seventh-place finish in 1965 by using younger players.

Right now, however, the Phillies don't mind having an old man such as White.

The Cardinals were not without power of their own. Tito Francona and Tim McCarver each stroked two-run homers as St. Louis handed winless Minnesota its sixth straight setback 7-5.

Pittsburgh won its fifth without a loss, nipping Cincinnati 4-3 behind the homers of Bill Mazeroski and Matty Alou. Pitcher Gary Peters rapped a bases-loaded triple and Tommy Agee homered, powering the Chicago White Sox past Houston 7-3.

Jack Cullen pitched three scoreless innings as the New York Yankees whipped Atlanta 7-2 while Chuck Estrada did the same in California's 6-4 triumph over Cleveland.

Pitcher Al Stanek lashed a three-run double, helping San Francisco to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, but a two-base throwing error by pitcher Howie Koplitz enabled Baltimore to edge Washington 6-5.

Johnny Lewis drove in the tie-breaking run with a single as the New York Mets downed Los Angeles 4-1, and Kansas City trimmed Detroit 7-6 when Randy Schwartz tripled home two runs and scored on a wild throw.

Heart Attack Fatal To Abe Saperstein

CHICAGO (AP) — Abe Saperstein, America's little ambassador of good will, died last night at the age of 63.

Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters' basketball team, died of a heart ailment at Weiss Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Friday.

Saperstein could have served as a model for the United Nations. He was one of a Jewish family of 10 born in London, England, who organized a Negro team which traveled throughout the world and found the welcome mat out in the Vatican as well as behind the Iron Curtain.

A 5-footer who couldn't play basketball at the University of Illinois because of his size after competing in basketball, baseball and track at Lake View of Chicago, Saperstein organized the Harlem Globetrotters, an all-Negro team, which made its debut in Hinckley, Ill., back in 1927.

Through the years, the clowning Globetrotters caught on with their trick shooting and traveled through 87 countries while logging five million miles.

Through the depression years, Abe stuck it out with his team despite the fact they had to travel in a Model T Ford and had to make the most of nothing for meals.

Bill Poole and Mike Terry shared mound duties for Redwood and scattered five hits. They were helped by sophomore shortstop Ken Johnson who made three dazzling plays, converting one of them into a double play.

Redwood's junior varsity nine lost to El Camino, 6-2. Next varsity game for the Giants will be Friday when they host Berkeley High, 3:30 p.m.

Marin's Bob Lombardi hit a double and single, drove in a run, and stole four bases. Ron Maloney had two singles and knocked in a run.

Gonzales Is Pessimistic

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Australian tennis captain Ken Rosewall is confident his team will win the pro challenge cup tonight at the Sports Arena, and U.S. captain Pancho Gonzales is understandably pessimistic.

The players rested yesterday after tying 4-4 in the first two days' play on the arena's new rubberized court.

"I think we have a good chance for a sweep tonight," said Rosewall.

In the singles, Australian Rod Laver plays Butch Bucholz and Mal Anderson takes on Pancho Segura of the U.S. In the doubles, Gonzales and Buchholz go against Laver and Anderson, and Segura and Alex Olmedo oppose Rosewall and Lew Hoad. Gonzales said:

"I think Buchholz has a chance to beat Laver, and Segura and Anderson are even, but we'll be hard pressed to win the doubles."

lied stoves to keep warm, barns and basements and then advanced to New York, then California in 1934.

Gaining fame in the United States, the Globetrotters went on world tours starting in 1950 when they made their first European trip.

Since then they hit nearly every continent and major city in the world as they performed before kings, queens, rajahs and even Russian commissars on a year-round schedule of 340 games.

The Trotters never missed a major stadium throughout the world and always won the hearts of the fans and instilled good will for the United States.

"It's difficult to explain," he once said, "that we were playing somewhere while stories were appearing about racial strife in the United States. We did our best to show they didn't mean too much."

Wherever he went, Saperstein won friends not only for himself but also the United States and eventually won this country's gratitude as a first-ranked ambassador of good will.

Sports A Pleasure? Ever Play Rugby?

Obviously, Noah Webster never paid $8.80 to see the Green Bay Packers, or had to hunt up a scalper and stand in line to get World Series seats.

In America, the definition is, "a physical torture engaged in for money." Sandy Koufax will throw a curveball only if he gets a half-million for three years for doing it. Otherwise, he'll do something pleasureable — like laying pipe or studying brain surgery.

TRY TALKING to a professional golfer as he's lining up a putt if you think he's having fun. ("I make my living this way!" snarled Cary Middlecoff at a photographer once. "So do I," retorted the photog.)

When a pro linebacker quits playing the game for money, does he call up a buddy some Sunday afternoon and say, "Hey, come on over and butt heads?" Will Maury Wills get restless around the house and say, "I think I'll go out and steal some bases?"

AN OLYMPIC swimmer gets so tired of water she doesn't even want to take a bath once she quits. A professional ice-skater doesn't even want to see a cube in his drink.

Which is why I went over to see the rugby match between UCLA and Occidental the other afternoon — 30 guys giving each other nose bleeds, cauliflower ears, barked shins and ringing ears. Just for the FUN of it.

THIS IS the game that was the forerunner of football, the incubator of a diversion that television networks annually pay more money to telecast than Napoleon paid to conquer Europe, a game where a last place team cut off its season ticket sales at 43,000 the other day to leave some room for the peons.

THERE WERE more people playing the game than watching it at Spaulding Field in L. A. the other afternoon. Several of them had just come from a hard day at the office. The eligibility rules are modeled after the 1944 German army draft. Graduate students, graduates, faculty members, professional pugilists, friends of the family, truck drivers on their lunch break — everybody who can still frost the glass or walk without crutches is welcome. They had a history prof named Ira Gruber on one team. A Dallas Cowboys football draftee — ex-Stanford lineman John Wilbur on his way through town — was on the other. Rugby is about as exclusive as the blood bank. Donors welcome.

SIXTY-YEAR-OLD men have played the game. Andy Capp plays it. It's two 40 minute halves of assorted mayhem, which starts off with 30 guys in a tug-of-war over a spherical football which lies under their feet like a hatching egg. The idea is to kick it back to a waiting line of running back who then proceed to lateral it, kick it, run it or otherwise smuggle it over the opposing goal line.

YOU CAN'T wear any equipment except that you can tape your ears, because, in the middle "scrum," you get to know what a guy felt like in Gestapo headquarters. You can't substitute. You enlist for the duration. There is no timeout except for a fatality. You run more in five minutes than Roosevelt Grier runs all season.

IN THE early 1900's when Teddy Roosevelt barred football as too rough, he encouraged rugby — which only shows he didn't understand the situation. In rugby, if a man is thrown to ground with the football and won't cough it up you are entitled either to kick the football away from him — or him away from the football. It's a game Sandy Koufax can play if he gets tired listening to records. After a quarter of it, he'll be glad to go back to throwing the curve ball.

For Nothing.

IT HAPPENS EVERY SPRING

Old Story Of Rookie Versus Veteran

PRESS BOX VIEWS

By JACK HANLEY

PHOENIX—It happens every spring. It is the age old story of rookie vs. veteran. This time a young man named Bob Barton is the rookie. Dick Bertell is the rookie. Dick Bertell is the veteran.

Barton is destined to bump Bertell out of a job. The first evidence of that came late last year when the Giants summoned Barton from Atlanta after the International League ended its season. Now the evidence is mounting in spring training camp.

Barton is a rookie catcher with a potentially big future. He can catch and he can hit. Furthermore, he is a righthand hitter, a perfect partner for Tom Haller, a lefthand hitter. At Atlanta last year Barton hit .289 and was the All-Star catcher of the International League. At Tacoma in 1963 he hit .302.

In his first seven times at bat in the big time during the final 1965 games at Candlestick Park, Barton got four hits. In his first two times at bat this spring, Barton doubled and singled.

Bertell knows that even if Barton were not on the scene, the Giants have another young catcher in Jack Hiatt who also is a pretty fair hitter. Hiatt hit .284 in early season games last year for the Giants and hit .284 at Tacoma later.

No team can use four catchers. The Giants need only a No. 2 man behind Haller and Barton is determined to be that man this year. So Bertell, beginning his seventh major league season at the age of 30, is keeping his bags packed.

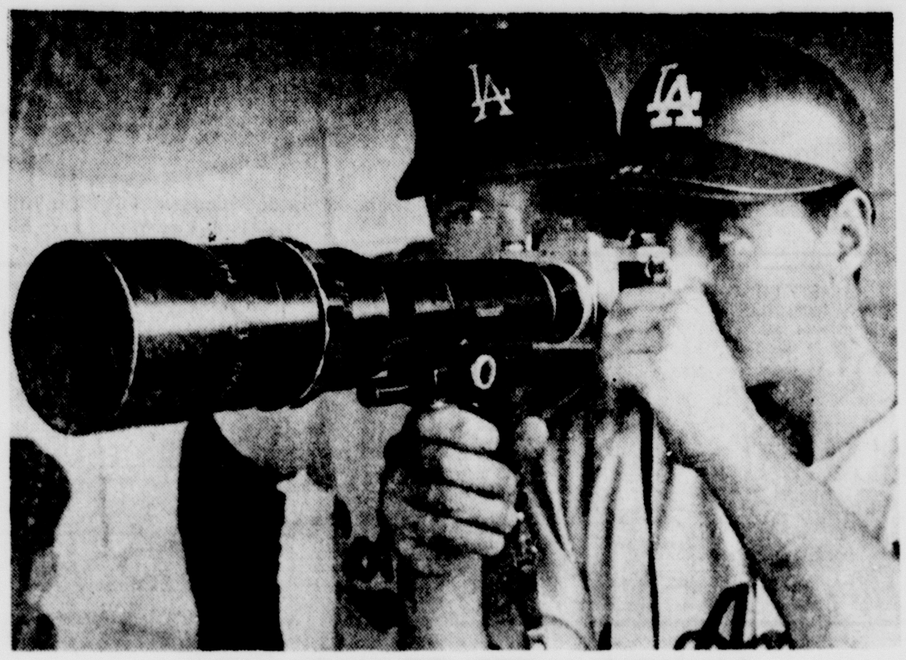
It was the same rookie vs. veteran setup five years ago in the spring training camp of the Giants. Then the rookie was Haller, the veteran Hobie Landrith. In addition, the Giants also were four-deep in catchers then with John Orsino and Bob Schmidt rounding out the quartet.

Landrith, starting his 12th major league campaign that year of 1961, watched Haller and Orsino somewhat nostalgically, thinking of his own rookie days.

"Nobody likes to have his job threatened," said Hobie who now happily peddles automobiles on the San Francisco peninsula. "But that is one of the hazards of baseball or business for that matter. In fact, when you get right down to it that's what the game thrives on — youth and competition."

Bertell, now watching Barton and Hiatt, didn't state the case in precisely the same words as Landrith. But what he said meant the same thing.

"You're young only once," he said.



NEW WAY TO STEAL SIGNALS

Abalones Are Legal Again; Where To Get 'Em In Marin

The sportfishing season for abalones opened today and will run through Jan. 14, the California Department of Fish and Game announced.

Bag limit is five abalones in combination of all species and minimum size limits, measured in greatest shell diameter, are 7 inches for red abalone, 6¼ inches for green abalone, 6 inches for pink abalone, 5 inches for black abalone, and 6 inches for all other species of abalone.

Best areas in Marin County for abalones are Tomales Point (also known as Pierce Point), Pt. Reyes and Abalone Point near Bolinas and some are taken at Slide Ranch area below Highway 1, Stinson Beach.

The DFG listed several regulations abalone fishermen should be familiar with before braving the briny in search of this delicious mollusk:

Every person while taking abalones shall carry a device which is capable of measuring accurately the size of the abalones taken;

Each abalone which has been detached but is not being retained must be replaced immediately, by hand, with the shell outward, to the same surface of the rock occupied before detachment:

Legal-size abalones must be brought ashore above the high water mark attached to their shells and alive. Abalones not in the shell may not be transported or possessed except when being prepared for immediate consumption.

Low tides offer the best abalone fishing and information on tides as well as copies of 1966 sportfishing regulations are available wherever fishing licenses are sold.

Westrum Seeks Little Miracle With Mets–First Division!!!

By JAC KHAND

ST. PETERSBUG, Fla. (AP) — Wes Westrum is the only manager in the long history of baseball who can become a rousing success by finishing ninth.

After four years in 10th place with Casey Stengel, newest member of the Hall of Fame, the New York Mets hope to perform the Little Miracle of Flushing Bay by evacuating the National League cellar.

When the Mets won their first exhibition game in Florida it was the first time they ever had won an opener anywhere. A new world record, said Stengel, who watched in his new capacity as vice president.

Buoyed by the power in the bats of Kenny Boyer and Dick Stuart, Westrum has become a positive thinker. "I'm not going to be a 10th place manager," said the man who took over last July 26 after Stengel suffered a fractured hip and was forced into retirement.

"We're thinking first division," said Westrum.

First division?

As the 1965 Mets wound up with a 50-112 record, 47 games off the pace and 36 games out of fifth place, Wes really is aiming high.

"We have a little more power with Stuart and Boyer to go with Ed Kranepool, Ron Swoboda and Jim Hickman," he said. "Now the pitchers can't work around our good hitters and get the weak sisters.

"We're going to hit and run and do a lot of bunting and try to force the opposition into making mistakes instead of making them ourselves."

Obviously, Westrum has laudable motives.

Stuart, a 28-homer, 95-rbi man but a .234 hitter and Mr. Stonefingers in the infield, has been acquired from the Phils to play first. Ron Hunt, recovered from the shoulder separation that put him out most of last season after making the All-Star team in 1964, is the second baseman.

Roy McMillan, the steady 35-year-old shortstop, and Kenny Boyer, who will be 35 in May, round out the infield. Boyer, of course, was the All-Star third baseman for years at St. Louis but slumped to .260 last year.

To make room for Stuart, Westrum has moved Kranepool to left field where he will platoon with Swoboda, who hit most of his 19 homers before the All-Star break. Hickman will be in center and Johnny Lewis will share right with Cleon Jones, back from Buffalo for a last chance.

Catching admittedly is a problem. Westrum has high hopes for 20-year-old Gene Goossen, plucked out of the Dodger organization a year ago on Westrum's advice. However, the rookie must prove he can do the job.

Chris Cannizzarro, one of the two remaining original Mets (Hickman is the other) can catch and throw but he hit only .183. Jerry Grote, ex-Houston Astro, Choo Choo Coleman and John Stephenson are the others.

With Al Jackson traded to St. Louis, the pitching is thin and young back of Jack Fisher who lost more games, 24, than any pitcher in the league.

Jack Hamilton (12-10 at Syracuse) a refugee from the Detroit system, and Dick Selma (2-1), who struck out 13 Braves in a September game, are other starters.

Tug McGraw will start when he gets out of the Marines but he is only 21 and had a 2-7 record as a rookie. Rob Gardner, a young lefty who impressed last fall after moving up from Buffalo, will get a shot at a starting job. Westrum may have to bring back vets Carl Willey and Galen Cisco, who are here but on the Jacksonville farm roter.

Larry Bearnarth, Darrell Sutherland, Gordon Richardson and Davie Eilers are relief possibilities. Anybody who shows good stuff in the spring will make this club. The door is wide open.

Fifth place? Well, maybe ninth. Maybe.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Kibitzer's Idea Of Modern Player May Be Short-Sighted

"It's that rock-and-roll they listen to.

"They hear that beat, and they can count only up to four.

"A bridge player must count to 13."

Opening lead — ♡ Q

South ruffed the first heart, led a trump to dummy's 10 and returned a club to try a finesse with the jack.

TRIES FINESSE

West won with the ace of clubs and returned another heart.

South ruffed again and led the queen of trumps to dummy's king.

Then he led another club from dummy to finesse with the 10.

Wset ruffed with the nine of spades, and the Old Kibitzer stalked away from the table.

"Anybody who can't draw trumps shouldn't be allowed to play bridge in a good club," he muttered.

MAKES GAME

Unperturbed by the loss of his audience, South ruffed West's third heart lead and ran all of the clubs, discarding a diamond from dummy.

Then he gave up the king of diamonds to the ace, winning the last two tricks with the queen of diamonds and dummy's last trump.

What do you think about these modern bridge players?

Do you agree with the Old Kibitzer, or do you think that South played the hand correctly?

South would go down if he drew three rounds of trumps. That would take all of his own trumps as well as all of West's.

When South finished with his clubs, West would take the last three tricks with the ace of diamonds and two hearts.

South would get four clubs and five trumps, but he would not get a diamond trick.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts.

You should win four heart tricks, two diamonds and a club even against bad breaks, so that nothing terrible can happen to you.

You can't afford to double one notrump because declarer might easily make that contract with a couple of hearts, a couple of spades, and some club tricks.

Market Closes Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed higher today after a late rally rescued a faltering list. Final dealings were heavy.

The market rose from the start but could not hold many of its gains. It backed away from its peak after the first hour. Selling failed to be generated, however, and a new wave of buying came in, boosting stocks to sharp gains.

The late rally was short-lived. Traders took profits quickly, but the list still remained well ahead on balance.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.8 million shares compared with 9.45 million yesterday.

A broad, general recovery in early trading lost its steam after the first hour but the market remained ahead on balance in late dealings.

Polaroid was up 5, Xerox 3, Boeing, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Northwest Airlines and Owens-Corning Fiberglas about 2 each.

Ahead a point or so were Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Collins Radio, KLM Airlines, Harsco and Time Inc.

Pan American World Airways was unchanged as it paced the list on volume. Other airlines showed a slightly higher trend, American and Eastern being among fractional gainers.

General Dynamics, fractionally higher, was a gainer in the aerospace group.

The cigarette stocks continued irregularly higher with American Tobacco, R.J. Reynolds and Liggett and Myers up fractionally while Philip Morris sank about 3 on profit taking and Lorillard lost a fraction.

Chrysler, Studebaker and General Motors held fractional gains. Ford dipped slightly.

MANHATTAN TO SPROUT WORLD'S TALLEST BUILDING

Continuing the tradition of trading that began 343 years ago when the Dutch bought furs from Indians on the lower part of what is now Manhattan, the Port of New York is planning to build a twin-spired World Trade Center on the waterfront. Shown in artist's drawing at left, it is planned to be the tallest building in the world; photo-drawing at right locates it and shows how negotiations for the site are progressing. (UPI Telephotos)

Legislative Pay Hikes, Other Reforms Needed

Salary raises for legislators, long overdue, will be among the topics to be taken up by the Legislature this year, along with other recommendations for constitutional revision.

There is almost universal agreement that a salary of $500 per month (or $6,000 per year), which is frozen into the state Constitution, is unrealistic.

A legislator, unless he is independently wealthy or has another source of regular income, cannot survive on the state salary alone, and the growing demands for his time on legislative work have made it almost impossible for him to pursue a regular vocation.

Several key members of the Assembly have announced they are quitting their legislative posts because they cannot afford the luxury of hanging onto a position for prestige value alone.

A more realtistic compensatoin, something in the range of $15,000 to $20,000 per year, has been suggested.

However, simultaneously with such a pay raise must come some drastic changes in at least two areas — fringe benefits and conflict of interest between legislators' public duty and private financial interests.

At present, legislators cannot be blamed for attempting to supplement their meager pay with other income such as unrealistic mileage pay, overly generous pension benefits, affiliations with persons who have business dealings with the state.

Actually, most legislators already draw a total of $10,000 to almost $19,000 per year. A typical case in 1965 would run something like this:

Salary, $6,000; living expenses, $4,600; per diem pay, $500; mileage, $1,000; total, $12,100.

Vast difference in the claim for mileage (15 cents per mile) cause a spread in total pay from $10,000 to almost $19,000. In addition, most legislators take advantage of the state's leased-car program, for which the state pays up to $150 per month for each car. The car, plus gas, oil and servicing means another $2,000, over and above the $10,000 to $19,000 total pay.

If the present $6,000 annual salary is raised to a realistic level, the other fringe benefits should be cut down proportionately.

Tighter laws on conflict of interest would also be a logical outcome of a pay raise.

It is to Governor Brown's credit that he called for legislation to "clear up problems of conflict of interest" along with improvements in legislative salaries.

A full disclosure of legislators' financial interests and their campaign contributors would serve to define areas where conflict of interests may exist.

Other suggestions include barring of gifts and gratuities, and restricting legislators from appearing before state boards and commissions where they can exert influence in behalf of private interests.

Legislative pay raises should go hand in hand with, and not before, reforms defining conflict of interest and reducing fringe benefits.

Johnson Following Middle Road In War To Avoid Its Spreading

I would like to say a good word about President Johnson's management of the Viet Nam war.

Obviously there is a great risk of timidly doing too little to arrest the aggression.

Obviously there is a great danger of recklessly doing so much that Red China enters the fighting.

With these two opposite perils in mind, I cannot escape the feeling that many more Americans will come to see that the President is bringing to bear on the conduct of the war wisdom, caution, and determination.

What is the touchstone of wisdom in our role in Viet Nam? Surely it is to do whatever is needed to secure South Viet Nam from conquest and to use our massive military power in such a prudent and measured manner that Peking is given no legitimate reason to enter the war.

SUCH A COURSE will not get the easy plaudits of those who want to win quickly at any cost by bombing North Viet Nam to bits.

Such a course will not get the praise of those who want to quit at any cost by pulling out.

Such a course will not get a high Gallup rating from those who suggest we haven't the resources to defend South Viet Nam and that, anyway, a little aggression in Southeast Asia is no concern to the U.S.

As these conflicting views find their level in public opinion, I believe that the nation, on reflection, will feel even more reassured that Gen. Curtis LeMay is not deciding the bombing over North Viet Nam, that Wayne Morse is not managing the defense of South Viet Nam, and that Senator Fulbright is not deciding where aggression concerns the U.S. and where it doesn't.

DURING THE PERIOD when he was determining how the mounting attacks directed from Hanoi should be met, President Johnson—as reported by Charles Roberts in his book, "LBJ's Inner Circle"—remarked to his intimates: "I'm not going north with Curtis LeMay and I'm not going south with Wayne Morse."

Fortunately, the President is not easily pressured either by events or by extremist advice. He did not act hastily; he acted deliberately. He did not act recklessly; he acted with great care.

He did not act timidly; he committed the U.S. to do whatever is necessary to defend South Viet Nam successfully—but no more.

These are the ingredients of mind which have marked the President's course in Viet Nam—deliberateness, prudence, and determination.

What they have produced is a very clear and properly limited objective: To keep South Viet Nam from being taken over by force.

AND HOW is he acting to make it least likely that Red China will enter the war? He is not using U.S. air power to bomb cities in the North.

He is not sending U.S. ground troops to occupy any part of North Viet Nam. He is not seeking the downfall of the Hanoi regime. He is not asking for the "unconditional surrender" of Hanoi.

He is asking only for an unconditional end to aggression against its neighbor.

Few Americans want to desert South Viet Nam. Few Americans want to wage the war so recklessly as to tempt Peking to enter it.

The ingredients of President Johnson's conduct of the war—deliberateness, prudence, and determination — are the best assurance we can win without spreading it.

Project Hope Needs Unwanted Treasures

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I wonder how many people realize they have a hidden treasure in their home? Perhaps not a treasure to them but a treasure for the hospital ship HOPE. She needs diapers — diapers — and more diapers! Need I say more to those with heart?

Mrs. G. R. Robertson and Mrs. Ronald Konkle will arrange for transportation to Central America, or they can be left at Baby News Store, 514 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Many thanks to the I-J for always being so cooperative.

Let's Get Rid Of Car Curfew

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Early this morning, when most people were horizontal, I happened to be vertical. From a San Anselmo knoll top I watched the frenetic journey of a police car up and down the streets hunting for vehicles parked overnight on the streets in violation of San Anselmo's car curfew law.

The night parking ordinance ticket vendetta against one individual is now directed apparently to all who park on the streets.

At the last San Anselmo Council meeting the police chief indicated how pitifully small is his graveyard shift. What a task it must be to cover the city from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. How ludicrous it is for the police force to be engaged in a battle with those who pay for its services.

A couple of weeks ago while traveling a main San Anselmo artery I narrowly missed hitting an elderly pedestrian on my side of the road. He was walking around cars parked on the sidewalk where they are safe from nocturnal tickets. There is good reason for the state law that prohibits sidewalk parking. There is no good reason for retention of the car curfew ordinance.

If it did not produce revenue, the night parking law would have been abolished long ago. Surely there are other, and fairer, sources of revenue. Let's get rid of this quaint ordinance before some pedestrian is injured because of it or loses his life because of it.

Youngsters Wreck Things

Editor, Independent-Journal:

What a pretty picture I saw in the I-J about the children at Loma Verde School, Ignacio, not afraid of hard work—and they must be enjoying it. Why don't the teen-agers in Mill Valley do something like that—those who belong to Project 17.

Why doesn't the park superintendent get the boys and girls together to do their own landscaping instead of paying to have it done. They always want donations for it. There are a lot of things the kids can do, but no, they want to see how fast they can wreck things.

Work Needed For Transit

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Could you please explore for the public's edification the possibility of having rapid transit in Marin and north to Santa Rosa.

The concern I have is that it took BART 20 years to implement the idea. Knowing thus that we will face political, construction and planning hurdles, we should press the case now.

The money invested here by taxpayers was once frustrated by an engineer's survey which stated the Golden Gate could not support the added weight. Now they believe it can support even a second deck of cars, and now we must follow up our vital interest in rapid transit.

The I-J must help to make it a vital interest long before the car-smog problem becomes so repulsive that the public will say that something should have been done. Why not work now vigorously and assume that it will be five to 15 years before our efforts are rewarded.

CHRISTIAN W. H. SOLINSKY

(In 1964, Marin voters approved the formation of a Marin County Transit District. The district is now in the process of getting engineering studies for improvement of public transit, probably an improved bus system initially. Eventual aim is a merger with BART, when that becomes physically and financially feasible—Editor.)

School Bonds Needed Now

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Suddenly a new school unification plan has been developed which—if approved by the State Board of Education in March—could be put to the voters June 7.

The new plan would split off the Drake high attendance area from the Tam district, joining it to the large, rural Tomales district.

It would unify the Tam high-Redwood areas into one district. This wipes out school boards and boundary lines of the present Sausalito, Mill Valley, Reed, Corte Madera, Kentfield, and Ross elementary districts.

If passed by the voters in June or any time before February, 1967, the new unified district would go into operation in July, 1967, replacing all six elementary school boards with a single board controlling the two high schools as well.

Why is this important? Because—regardless of future unification possibilities — Mill Valley needs classrooms now to house Mill Valley's kids. We hope our school board will face this fact squarely and proceed toward an early bond issue, rather than waiting any longer to see what unification will do.

We are not sure Sausalito, Reed, Corte Madera, Ross and Kentfield would vote to raise their taxes to build schools for Mill Valley — particularly as they know that there are empty classrooms in Reed and Sausalito which our children might use.

Let's pass a bond issue in Mill Valley now — while we can—to take care of Mill Valley children in Mill Valley classrooms.

Congressman Pushes Minimum Wage Rise

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — It looks as if President Johnson has another congressional revolt on his hands. This time it's over the long-stalled legislation to increase the $1.25-an-hour minimum wage.

Rep. John Dent, D-Pa., chairman of the General Labor Subcommittee, is taking the bit in his teeth and pushing a bill that would considerably exceed the inflation guidelines laid down by the White House.

Dent's measure would raise the minimum wage to as high as $2 in the next three years.

"THE FIRST STEP will definitely be $1.40," Dent said. "The next will be $1.50 or $1.60. That still has to be worked out. The third step also is an open question. It could be anywhere from $1.75 to $2." This is squarely counter to White House policy.

Gardner Ackley, head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, has let it be known a minimum wage boost should be held to $1.40 an hour over the next five years. He has called attention to the President's admonition in his labor message last year: "Congress should consider carefully the effects of higher minimum wage rates on the incomes of those employed, and also on costs and prices."

These strictures are being shrugged off by Dent. It is known he was summoned to the White House to discuss this legislation, but Dent is making it clear he is drafting his own bill regardless of administration views.

"A $1.40 an hour wage won't get people out of poverty," he snaps. "The anti-poverty agency says a family has to earn more than $3,000 a year to escape poverty. That calls for at least a $1.50 an hour minimum wage. But Ackley wants to keep it at $1.40."

ALSO CONTEMPLATED by Dent is expanding existing minimum wage coverage of 29.6 million workers to take in another 6.5 million. Still undecided is including agricultural workers.

While Representative Dent is pretty certain of the kind of legislation he wants, neither he nor anyone else knows what the other 10 members of his subcommittee and the full Labor Committee will do.

In the former, the six other Democrats and four Republicans are largely in the dark on what Dent has been up to. He has kept his ideas wholly to himself. The subcommittee has held only one brief hearing at which a group of Puerto Ricans testified.

Another hearing was abruptly called off with no explanation. Later, committeemen learned Dent had intended to take up consideration of the bill he has drafted. According to latest word, that is now set for next week.

Rep. William Ayres, O., ranking Republican on the full labor committee, is protesting the arbitrary shutting off of open hearings. Says Ayres, "If one group was allowed to testify, the same oportunity should be given others vitally interested in this legislation. But apparently the door has been slammed shut."

Privately, committeemen are attributing Dent's tactics to his determination to report out a bill bearing his name.

Last year his subcommittee, then under the chairmanship of Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., voted out a $1.75 an hour measure. But that's still stymied in the House Rules Committee and, in effect, is dead.

The 1964 Democratic platform pledged an increase in the $1.25 minimum wage. The Senate has done nothing on the issue awaiting action by the House. In that chamber, it's a toss-up whether a measure will ever emerge from committee. It didn't last year, and the prospects this year are clouded.

"ANGEL" OF A DOG

A self-appointed sheepdog went to work last Christmas — but it was plastic sheep he guarded.

The toy animals were part of a Nativity scene at the City Hall in Gilbert, Arizona. The shaggy-haired dog appeared about a week before Christmas and stayed there until after the holidays.

"He sleeps with the sheep," commented one municipal employee. "He won't leave them, and he hasn't eaten all week. He's getting as thin as can be."

Dubbed "Angel" by workers in the area, the dog perseveringly stuck to its job of guarding the figures of the Madonna and Child with the sheep.

Although such a case may be rare, the part that animals play in the divine plan is many-sided and varied. Some serve for man's protection and companionship, while others provide him with food, clothing and other materials.

Thoughtfulness for all of God's creation—especially His noblest creature, man—is the mark of one who truly appreciates the gift of life.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want."
(Psalm 22:1)

Let me show respect, O Lord, in proper measure for all that You have made.

Newspaper Purchase Indicates Press Competition Still Exists

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Acquisition of the Sacramento Union by the Copley Press, Inc., is something more than an ordinary newspaper purchase. It is, in fact, an indication that competition continues to exist in major communities of the state as far as the press is concerned and that the era of the morning newspaper is a long way from being over.

On its mast-head, the Union calls attention every morning to the fact that it is the "oldest daily west of the Rockies."

Another claim to fame is the fact that Mark Twain once was a reporter for the Sacramento Union.

AT ONE TIME prior to 1922, the Union was owned by the Southern Pacific railroad, this being in the days when the SP ran California politics.

When the railroad decided to let Hiram Johnson eliminate it from the political field, other interests acquired the Union, and even during that early part of the century, the paper started showing its age.

In 1922, things were a little better. The Union issued paychecks, but no one except the bootleggers would cash them.

DESPITE THE VICISSITUDES, the newspaper was an excellent training ground for the newspaperman. There never was enough help, so reporters had to double in brass, which entailed long hours and no specialization in any one field. On the occasion of one big story, a convict hunt following a murder, most of the staff was up for three days.

More than a half-dozen changes in ownership of the Union have taken place during the past 42 years.

The Copley acquisition, however, is the first time that a large newspaper organization, owning other newspapers, and with resources sufficient to make the paper a real power in the community, has entered the field.

CARLYLE REED will be the new publisher. Reed is a former resident of Sacramento and not unacquainted with the local problems of the community.

Neither is he unacquainted with the problems of the state, having had some lengthy experiences in the state Department of Water Resources, and having acted as a legislative representative for California's publishing industry. Reed has his job cut out for him and the odds are he will do a good one.

TRY AND STOP ME

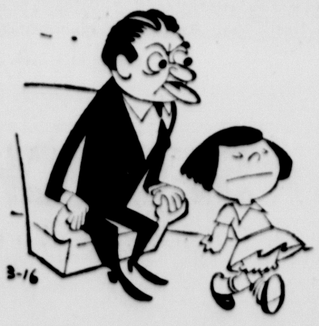
BENNETT CERF

SOME YEARS AGO, Frank Loesser, who wrote the wondrous score of "Guys and Dolls," invented a game that afforded his then four-year-old daughter Susan untold amusement. He would press one of his coat buttons and immediately stick out his tongue, hunch his shoulders, and goggle his eyes. Susan's task was to push the button above, thereby restoring him to normalcy. One evening, in accordance with the ritual, Loesser pressed his button and his face assumed the proper resemblance to an agitated hyena.

This time, however, Susan did not react according to Hoyle. She slipped off his lap, took her mother's hand, and cheerfully suggested, "Let's leave him that way!"

MYRON MOORE tells about a young Kansas City mother who was the invaluable member of a board administering a privately supported old ladies' home. On the day for her monthly inspection of the home, she was unable to find a babysitter for her seven-year-old daughter, so with some trepidation she took the youngster with her.

She need not have worried. The little girl took one look at the passel of elderly ladies and remarked cheerfully, "How wonderful! A roomful of grandmothers!"



HEARD ABOUT the rabbit with halitosis? He could have won a best-in-the-show award, but he missed it by a hare's breath.

Tiburon Shadow Cabinet Comes Into Open, Looking For Votes

The present city council has become aware of that fact lately, and a few of its members might secretly admit that this, in itself, has become a problem for them.

IT TOOK a lot of people to rally the necessary support among local residents in the 1964 fight for incorporation of the city, but after that victory was finally secured on June 23, only five residents could actually take council seats and try to realize incorporation promises.

The voters had been told that planning, drainage, downtown parking, and greater police protection were all sorely needed for Tiburon and that incorporation would be the way to get them.

Like the shadow cabinets of the British Parliament, those local leaders who didn't get seats on the city council have been waiting silently on the sidelines for two years, watching the action and waiting for their chance to join the play.

THAT CHANCE, several of them are hoping, will come with the city's April 12 city council election, now just around the corner.

Several of the challengers figured largely in the pre-incorporation efforts and many have maintained unofficial yet influential roles while waiting for the city's second council election to be held next month.

Azevedo, a 15-year resident of the city, has a strong following with many of the area's old-timers. A member of the Tiburon Fire District from 1952-1958 and of the Reed School District Board from 1957-1960, Azevedo has gathered a great deal of respect as being a plain, level-headed and dedicated local resident.

RECENTLY HE has been calling for the opening of the city's budget hearings and has been asserting the right of local residents to bring grievances and requests directly to the council or planning commission rather than having to deal through committees.

Drohan, co-chairman of the quiet but effective Tiburon Citizens Advisory Committee for Planning, has made the confusion over a downtown plan for Tiburon his major campaign issue.

Lever, thumping the most common drum beat of the campaign, claims the council should "take action by implementing instead of constantly reviewing studies which have been made."

William R. Bremer, a soft-spoken candidate who said he is running to correct the general apathy in local government, says, "I'm not a reformist or crusader, and I have no axe to grind. The council has done a good job, but it needs team spirit."

And Bramwell D. Fanning, former president of the Reedlands Property Owners Assn. and chairman of the Tiburon Peninsula Coordinating Council prior to incorporation, seems to feel that the council itself ought to be made up of a different team and that its strategy should be revamped if anything is to be done for the city.

"THERE'S BEEN a lack of initiative on the part of the council," he says. "It should bring other areas into the community and should try to use its city manager and planning commission effectively."

An influential worker for incorporation, Fanning complains that it is as hard now to get the city council and planning commission to act on a question as it was for him, several years ago, to get the affairs of the Reedlands decided through the county.

Those are the noises which can be heard in "quiet" Tiburon now, as the "shadows" who once lurked on the sidelines have come out into the streets to shake hands and kiss babies.

Batman, Robin Figure Out How To Avoid Going To Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — "When all else fails, the President of the United States still has one secret weapon which he and he alone has the power to use. One night last week, when all else failed, the President decided to use it."

Lights up—we see phone and hear ringing.

SUDDENLY BATMAN comes out on stage and walks over to the phone. He picks it up. "Yes, chief. You want to speak to Valenti? He's in the Batroom . . . Just a minute. I'll get him."

"Hello, chief, this is Robin. Robin Valenti. Yes, I know—I changed my name to Robin so Marvin Watson wouldn't be able to trace my telephone calls . . . What's that? Holy Fulbright! You'd better speak to the Batman." As he hands the phone to Batman, he says, "He wants us to go to Viet Nam."

Batman grabs the phone and says to Robin, "He must be out of his mind." Then he speaks into the phone, "Yes, chief, but chief, yes, I know, chief . . . But I'm 4-F. I've got psychological problems. Why else would I be wearing leotards?"

Robin: "Tell him I've got a bad knee."

Batman: "Robin has a bad knee. Why don't you send Cassius Clay?"

BATMAN HANGS UP. Turns to Robin. "He says if we don't go, he'll get us on income taxes."

Robin: "Holy J. Edgar Hoover! He must know about the money we kept from the Brink's robbery."

Robin: "Ho—go—I would go to Hanoi. But it doesn't rhyme."

Batman: "Good thinking, Boy Wonder. That's how Ho has fooled everyone. Now if you played a gong, where would it clong?"

Robin: "In the Viet Cong!"

Robin: "Holy McNamara! We'd better tell Dean Rusk."

Batman: "Wait, Robin. Rusk has enough problems as it is. We'd better take care of Ho ourselves."

Robin: "But how?"

Robin: "What does it say?"

Robin: "Holy Joe Alsop! Look, there's another card."

Robin: "Holy Walter Lippmann! There's a third card."

Batman reads third card. "Bomb Hanoi."

Robin says: "Holy Goldwater."

Batman reads fourth card. "Take it to the United Nations."

Robin: "Holy Goldberg!"

Batman: "We're in trouble, Robin. I'm not about to go to Viet Nam. I was a veteran in World War II."

Robin: "And I'm not about to go to Viet Nam. I went to the University of California at Berkeley."

Batman: "But how can we get out of it?"

Robin: "Holy Bill Moyers! I think I've got it. If we announce the President is sending us to Viet Nam before he announces it, he'll get so mad he won't send us."

Batman: "Robin, that's good thinking. What's Drew Pearson's telephone number?"

LITTLE LEAGUE DONATIONS

Little leaguer Derek Andros of the Larkspur Lions bids farewell to Howard Stucky, president of the Corte Madera Merchants Council, as the boy heads for the dugout with a huge sack of funds donated by merchants for this year's baseball events. Center merchants have made an annual donation for six years.

Bigger And Better July 4 Celebration Being Planned

More fireworks, more family-oriented activities for the entire Fourth of July, more public and private financial support, and the efforts of the largest-ever committee of Larkspur and Corte Madera civic leaders promise to make the 1966 Larkspur-Corte Madera Independence Day celebration the area's greatest, said Carl K. Brown, general chairman, today.

The Town of Corte Madera has almost doubled its contribution to the event this year. Similar support is being asked of the City of Larkspur. The largest contract ever signed for fireworks was executed this past week.

The Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce is underwriting the event. Merchants in the Corte Madera, Larkspur, Greenbrae areas are expected not only to contribute financially to the event as they have in the past, but also to provide free parking, refreshments, and decorations, Corte Madera chamber president B. A. Sill said.

Events on the Fourth of July are expected to include the following: The traditional ball game between Corte Madera and Larkspur volunteer fire departments, a special little league ball game immediately following.

A parade is planned between Larkspur and Corte Madera, a family picnic in the Corte Madera park, folk dancing on the new all-purpose slab in the park, musical combos and barbershop singing in the late afternoon, hot dogs and soft drinks for families at the recreation center in Corte Madera.

There will be organ music in the fireworks area preceding the 9 p.m. fireworks display. Acres of free parking in flat areas will be available in the Corte Madera Center, other merchant areas, and on public streets.

Comprising the present planning committee for the Fourth of July are: Carl K. Brown of the Corte Madera Chamber, general chairman; Harold Kelly of the Corte Madera Fire Department, pyrotechnic events; Albert Kogler of the Corte Madera Town Council, parade chairman; Dan Allen, folk dancing events; John McDermott, president of the Corte Madera Lions Club, refreshments; Mrs. Marion Entwistle of the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club, public solicitations; Harlan Barry and Robert Parker of the Larkspur Chamber of Commerce, intercity coordination; B. A. Sill, president of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, arrangements; and attorney Richard G. Burns, secretary of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, publicity.

Collapse of the traditional Larkspur-Corte Madera fireworks display was threatened last year when the recreation district was terminated, but the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce voted to maintain, expand, and underwrite the event.

According to chairman Brown, the emphasis this year will not only be on a greater fireworks display but also on a greater number of family-oriented events in the Larkspur-Corte Madera areas which will encorage Marinites to stay off the highways and spend the entire holiday in their home area with their familiies.

You wouldn't think of going through an entire winter without washing your hands — and it's also unsanitary to wear dirty gloves day after day. They need occasional washings, too, for better and longer wear.

Terra Lindan To Preside At Cal Aggie Judging Day

Future Farmers of America from chapters in California, Nevada, and southern Oregon will assemble Saturday on the Davis campus of the University of California, for the annual Cal Aggie Judging Day.

Several hundred FFA members will participate in a number of contests of agricultural skills and knowledge including topics of agricultural mechanics, agronomy, dairy cattle, entomology, farm accounts, farmpower, land, livestock, meats, milk products, horticulture, poultry, pomology, vegetable crops, viticulture, and parliamentary procedure.

Pet Food Business Outpaces Baby Boom

NEW YORK (AP)—Steelways Magazine predicts that the U.S. market for pet foods may soon rise from its present $700 million-a-year volume to $1 billion. Reason is pet owner's increasing concern with the nutritional needs of their pets.

Consumers now spend more than twice as much money for commercial pet foods as for canned baby foods, according to the magazine published by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Corte Madera Ready For Its Anniversary

A calendar of the events to take place on the Town of Corte Madera's 50th anniversary celebration June 10, 11 and 12 was released today by committee co-chairmen Robert D. Dolman and Don C. Sutherland.

The Corte Madera Center will have a large part to play in events, with a classic car display tentatively scheduled for the center on the afternoon of June 12.

The Town of Corte Madera was incorporated June 10, 1915. The theme for the anniversary celebration will be dress and costumes of the 1910-1915 era: Granny gowns for the ladies and girls; tight pants, boaters, derbys, string ties, garter arm bands for men and boys. The committee hopes that merchants and residents will be dressed for the occasion throughout the three-day celebration.

The tentative schedule of events:

Friday, June 10, 7 p.m.: Opening ceremonies and street dancing in the Village Square area; displays in the new town hall and in the public safety building of art and art-in-action.

Saturday, June 11, 10 a.m.: Town hall dedication with reenactment of original signing of the town charter; displays, roving band concerts.

Noon: Family picnics with box lunches in the park area; 1 p.m.: Little league game; 2:30 p.m.: Cake decorating contest and folk dancing in the park area at 8 p.m.: The Mayor's Ball at the all-purpose slab in the park.

Sunday, June 12, 1:30 p.m.: Parade from the center of Corte Madera to the town park involving children's groups, townspeople, bands and "horseless carriages;" 2:30 p.m.: Ladies' Fashion Show; 3:15 p.m.: game in the park; 4 p.m.: Barbecue in the park.

This Pedestrian Honks Own Horn

She stopped her automobile for a traffic light at the intersection of Roselawn and Main Streets and saw a big goose come waddling around the corner.

The goose turned the corner onto Main, honking to clear the traffic and was last seen by Mrs. Sneed walking down the middle of the street.

Form Letters Held Good Form

CHICAGO (AP) — Contrary to what Emily Post might say, it's not bad form to use form letters. And it can be good business.

Form letters today can easily replace repetitious business communications and cut correspondence costs as much as 54 per cent, reports A. B. Dick, manufacturer of duplicating equipment that turns out mass-produced letters that defy detection. Even individually typed salutations can be filled in to match the body type perfectly.

The company says that up to 40 per cent of items typed in the average office might be reproduced in this way.

This Town Really For The Birds

GRIGGSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — This small town calls itself the "Purple Martin Capital of the Nation" and carries on a program to attract martins, cardinals, wrens, bluebirds and other songbirds.

The purple martin is a friendly bird noted for its consumption of mosquitoes and other nuisance insects.

Skilled chemists develop new, advanced products in Wards own modern paint factories. For example, they have developed a process in which alkyd oil is added to an acrylic latex base to produce Acrylic Latex 401—the only paint we know of that promises 1-coat coverage over any previously painted chalking surface—without priming! 401—an example of Wards continual quest to develop the best, through research . . . then better it.

State Jaycees Back Choice Of Speaker

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The California Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has found itself the center of some controversy since it was announced one of its speakers during a March 17-18 seminary on governmental affairs would be Artie Samish, has issued an explanation.

Samish, who had been one of the most powerful lobbyists in California until the early 50's and who subsequently served a federal prison term for income tax evasion, is scheduled to speak at the wind-up banquet of the governmental affairs meeting on "How I became the most powerful lobbyist in California's history."

The junior chamber announced it had received criticism for scheduling the address.

"We would like to have it known that a man's presence on our program does not in any way constitute approval or disapproval on our part of his actions or philosophy," the chamber said. "Our speakers are chosen strictly on the basis of their impact and relevancy on California state government. We do believe that the way to avoid past pitfalls in government is to keep the public informed so that they do not happen again in the future."

Professors Join Their Talents To Perpetuate Indian Tribe Lore

There was a strange thing, a buffalo with horns of steel. . . .

So begins a Kiowa Indian myth, one of the many to be preserved for continued retelling, along with history and lore, in a limited edition written and published by three professors skilled in complementary arts: literary, graphic and typographical.

One of these three, N. Scott Momaday, assistant professor of English at the University of California, Santa Barbara, is himself a Kiowa, born near the Kiowa Agency at Anadarko, Oklahoma.

His memory harbors tales told by his grandmother who, as a child of seven, took part in the last Kiowa sun dance in 1887 on the banks of the Washita River above Rainy Mountain Creek in Oklahoma.

This dance, along with the buffalo and Tai-me — a sacred doll or fetish—were not only necessary to the religion of the Kiowas but to their sense of self identity, Monday commented.

But by 1887, the buffalo were gone.

"In order to consummate the ancient sacrifice — impale the head of a buffalo bull upon the Tai-me tree—a delegation of old men journeyed into Texas, there to beg for an animal from the Goodnight herd."

Three years later, however, when the Kiowas came together for the last time as a living sun dance culture, they could find no buffalo. Their religion, in effect, was dead.

The book is to be called "The Journey of Tai-me."

Bruce McCurdy, assistant professor of art at Santa Barbara, is etching in copper a group of original prints which will be hand-painted.

Momoday's text will be set by hand in type cast from original matrices engraved especially for the book. The type face is an adaptation of an old-style design by Darvey Carlsen, lecturer in art and a graphic arts expert.

School Boom's Decline Helps State Budget

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown said the expected public school enrollment next fall will be 10,000 below earlier estimates, which means the school support item in the 1966-67 budget can be reduced by $2,356,400.

Brown said enrollment figures were not available when the budget was made up in December. He said enrollment next fall is estimated at 4.6 million and the proposed savings amounts to $234.64 for each of the 10,000 students which had been expected in addition to that. General fund appropriations for school support still will amount to $1,088,746,890, Brown said.

No Sweet Tooth For Poor Young

NEW YORK (AP) — If every child on relief in New York City received one ice cream cone or candy just once a week, it would cost the government $1,040,000 a year.

The city doesn't have money to buy such weekly delights, Joseph H. Louchheim, the city's new welfare commissioner, uses the figures to illustrate the magnitude of financing welfare in New York City.

Describing the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program, Louchheim said there are 200,000 children in New York under the age of 18 who cannot afford an ice cream cone

Poverty War Held A Boon To Business

LOS ANGELES — It's good business to eliminate the pockets of poverty that exist in society due to lack of opportunity, two UCLA professors declare.

"In an economic sense, the lack of opportunity, regardless of cause, can only mean foregone gross national product and purchasing power, which affect us all," they said.

The two professors are Werner Z. Hirsch, professor of economics and director of UCLA's Institute of Government and Public Affairs, and E. L. Loren, acting assistant professor of economics.

Hirsch and Loren contend that "the Economic Opportunity Program, while not without some serious flaws, represents a major step forward in providing the opportunity essential for keeping our political and economic system viable."

They described poverty as a vicious circle formed by social problems and low social-economic status and said that this circle could not be broken effectively by "the dole" approach but required a multi-faceted program linking jobs, housing, education and economic opportunity.

One problem to be resolved is the role of the poor in the program. The two professors pointed to the importance of local participation and leadership and noted that this was consistent with the goal of "human capital formation" rather than the dole. They cautioned that this could require more than just "participation elections."

They extended this view to suggest consumer education for the poor and cited evidence that the poor generally pay more for given products and services through lack of information.

They called for more pilot projects in order to prevent hasty overcommitment and to allow time to select the most effective programs for implementation on a national scale.

They warned that the crisis in Viet Nam could lead to deletion or minimization of some projects of Economic Opportunity Program. "This is understandable politics," they said, "but questionable economics."

Brown Signs Bill

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed into law AB6 and AB7 by Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, which validate organization, boundaries, acts, proceedings and bonds of counties, cities and special district, agencies and entities.

The name for Racoon Strait, which is between Angel Island and the Marin County shore, came from the British warship "Raccoon" which anchored in San Francisco Bay in 1814 to make repairs.

THE SCHOOL DAY BEGINS—Elementary school teacher Mrs. Mildred Gold quotes the words of literary giants in the book with which Pittsburgh school replaced the Bible after inspirational reading in the classrooms was outlawed by the Supreme Court. (UPI Telephoto)

FOR PUPILS, GREAT WORDS

'Green Book' Replaces Testament

By GLORIA WOLFORD

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —Aristotle, Cicero, Plato and Shakespeare have moved into Pittsburgh classrooms, where once Matthew, Mark, Luke and John held sway.

The words of these wise men are quoted in a green book titled, "The School Day Begins."

The 276-page book provides a solution to a problem which has been plaguing schools since 1963 when the U.S. Supreme Court banned prayers and Bible reading in public schools. The problem was how to start the school day.

Now classes here start with readings from the green book. Most of the readings are from secular sources but some are from the Bible and if the day's reading includes Bible verses, they are treated as literature rather than as religion.

Thousands of persons have written the Pittsburgh Board of Education for copies of the book. They feel it is an answer to their prayers.

And from a Pennsylvania mother who heard about the book: "I feel this may be the answer to the anxious feeling I have about the children being denied prayer and Bible readings to begin their day.

The green book, two years in the making, is the work of 25 teachers headed by Miss Agnes Krarup and sparked by Pittsburgh School Superintendent Sidney P. Marland.

Marland said the Supreme Court ban does not, as critics charge, take God out of public schools.

"Nothing in the Supreme Court's ruling removes from schools the freedom and obligation to treat religion as a very large force in our civilization," he said.

The book provides a guide to opening exercises but not a program to which all teachers must rigidly adhere.

In addition to daily readings, the book suggests a minute of silent meditation for even the youngest children, music and lectures explaining the holy days of each religion.

Many of the reading suggestions are poems. Presidents from Washington to Johnson are quoted liberally. The book even contains some essays, poems and thoughts collected from high school teachers and students.

A sample from Judith Grindell, a student at Pittsburgh's Carrck High School:

"A wall
Shuts out the world
But can't shut out the mind
That wants to know the world
beyond—The Wall."

During the minute's meditation, many of the younger children clasp their hands as if in prayer. "They don't have to pray," Miss Krarup explained. "I guess the hands just carry over from before the ban."

"Some say we were too careful not to include prayers," she said.

There are 21 themes for opening exercises. The first 15 deal with patriotic values and bear such titles as "Famous Americans," "Uncle Sam" and "Watchwords of Liberty."

The remaining seven themes deal with brotherhood and childrens' responsibilities toward each other, home and family, school and "the world."

Miss Krarup said poetry belonged both in morning exercises and literature classes.

"Literature classes deal with appreciation," she said. "We are using poetry as a tool to teach the meaning of life.

"We are using literature in helping children think about such things as the brotherhood of man."

Asked if it was the province of schools to worry about moral and spiritual values, Miss Krarup replied:

"All education is instilling moral values.

"Spiritual values such as the brotherhood of man are not confined to the church. They can be taught in schools without any religious connotations."

When the Supreme Court first banned public school prayers, the reaction of many Pittsburgh teachers was summed up in a board of education newsletter from Marland.

It said:

"When all is said and done, the opening exercises, before and after the Supreme Court decision, are concerned with values. These values now take on a potential of broader and deeper dimensions. We can teach the brotherhood of man without actual use of scripture; we can teach integrity without ritual; we can teach the ethic of love without prayer."

(The Pittsburgh Board of Education printed 5,000 copies of "The School Day Begins." The first 3,000 went to city school teachers and the remainder were sold at $2 each to the first 2,000 who wrote to the board. Publication rights were then sold to Hobbs, Dorman and Co., of New York.)

San Quentin (Spanish pronunciation is Sahn Kayn-teen or Keen-teen) . . . was not named for St. Quintin, the son of Zeno, but for an Indian chief who had thus been christened by the Spaniards.

PAID IN ADVANCE—Jan Stewart, president of the Marin Mannequin League, will turn the check she has just received from Herbert Brandt, president of the Northgate Merchants Assn., over to the Muscular Dystrophy Assn. They are framed between fountain waters of the Promenade Pond where league members will model outfits from Northgate stores Saturday afternoon.

Carnaby Street Calls The Tune

LONDON (UPI) —First it was Savile Row, the London side street that became famous for the posh, upper-crust cut it gave to men's clothes.

Another drab little street called Carnaby Street is calling the fashion tune. A mere seven years ago, London and the world didn't know about Carnaby Street. But then, a 22-year-old named John Stephen put it on the map. Possessed, it seemed, of a genius for persuading young, hip English boys and girls to wear almost anything he suggested, his store led to a proliferation of clothing stores for the young and adventurous on Carnaby Street.

Now Carnaby Street fashions, just like those of Savile Row, are finding their way across the Atlantic and will soon be appearing in department stores in New York and later on throughout the whole country.

The shops catering to the English youth called Mods, have names unlike any other clothes shops in London. Names like "His Clothes" or "Male Boutique," "Lord John," "Lord John of Carnaby Hall," "Her," "Eve" or "Adonis."

Anybody is at complete liberty to walk into the stores, try on any article of clothing he likes and the salesmen will not bother him.

"We don't like hurrying our clients, and they don't like it either," the manager of one of the stores said. "One should be at leisure when they are buying clothes. To make them hurry would disturb the clients' sense of color, contrast and proportion," he said.

The girls' shops even have revolutionary fitting rooms. A girl chooses a dress on a hanger, pulls back the curtain of the tiny room and there on all the walls are life-size photographic enlargements of young men wearing brief swim suits and engaging smiles.

A Mod clothes manufacturer said, "Most Mod clothes are designed by the teen-agers themselves. They tell us what they want and we make it to their specifications. If it looks reasonable we offer them to the shops in Carnaby Street. But because the styles change so quickly, we cannot mass produce them for fear of the style going 'out' and we being left with a stagnant stock on our hands."

Carnaby Street fashions "in" at the moment, especially for the extra fashion-conscious Mod girl are bell-bottom trouser suits, the jackets being double-breasted, flaps on all pockets and tie up belts, "granny shoes" with thick and clumpy heels and op-art shirts or blouses sometimes the material being the design of the British flag or otherwise daubed with startling colors.

For the Mod boy, who seemingly cares about his appearance more so than his girl, bell-bottoms are also in, as are three-buttoned, two-vent, high-collared jackets, also with flaps on all pockets.

The style of shirt is optional, but is usually button-down or tab-collared.

Shoes must have seams down the front. Otherwise the boy just won't exist in the elite of his ilk. Reefer jackets are also worn, with two deep vents at the back and covered in brass buttons. Ties are usually knitted woolen affairs or brightly colored silk.

This outfit might cost about 50 pounds ($140).

In New York, Macy's vice-president, Kenneth Straus, said recently that the first shipment of Carnaby Street clothes to be shown by his store will be a feeler to try out the market.

"This is new at the moment in America, but it could be the beginning for a big demand for this type of clothing," Straus said.

Spring Fashion Parade Set Saturday In Outdoor Area

Northgate's Spring Fashion Parade, to be held Saturday at 1 p.m., will be another activity by the Marin Mannequin League on behalf of Muscular Dystrophy. Twelve members of the league will be modeling 40 outfits from Northgate stores that represent the latest in America's fashion world.

This is the second year this group of Marin models has donated their time for the Muscular Dystrophy Assn. All proceeds from their fashion shows throughout the year go to this Marin Charity.

The Northgate show will be held on the bridge and island of the Promenade Pond. A runway will be constructed for the league members on the bridge extending to the platform on the island. Programs will be distributed to all visitors listing clothing shown and identifying contributing stores. The show will be narrated by Grace Hughes.

In addition, the Northgate merchants will provide all visitors with flowers. Programs will be numbered for a drawing. Chairs will be set up around the pond.

Count Marco Ready To Make Remarks

Count Marco, distinguished, mustachiod and controversial syndicated columnist, will be a special guest of Northgate Shopping Center for its Spring Fashion Show on Saturday.

The caustic count, who claims descent from a long line of Italian nobility, is a fashion designer, make-up expert, coiffeur stylist and cosmetician. He will join the Marin Mannequin League in displaying fashions offered by Northgate stores.

The show will be presented on a specially decorated runway leading to the island in the Northgate pond, located in the mall, giving an ampitheater atmosphere to the show. Count Marco will be on a raised dais at the beginning of the runway, where he will act as kibitzer as the models pass by. His appearance is scheduled for 1 p.m.

The count is a Marin County resident, living in Sleepy Hollow. He is much sought after as a lecturer to men's groups as well as women's affairs.

COUNT MARCO

THIS ONE-PIECE DRESS is hand-knitted from the new Souffle yarn, imported from France and available at the Emporium's Northgate store. The yarn comes in 27 colors, is light and fluffy and is both machine and hand washable.

Chemistry Creates Quilting Without Costly Stitching

Something new in quilting—no threads—no stitching. The quilting is done chemically. You will find it in fabrics for jackets, skirts, housecoats, robes, linings, comforters, quilts and spreads.

This chemical process results in new fabrics with a quilted or sculptured design, (1) by bonding woven or knitted fabrics to foam, (2) by bonding woven or knitted fabrics to a fiber batt—on one or both sides.

Adhesive is applied to the foam or fiber batt in a variety of patterns ranging from alligator-like graining to squares, dots, and complex floral designs. When the foam and fabric or fiber batt and fabric are combined, the portion of the fabric touched by the adhesive becomes indented or sculptured.

Some garments made of chemically quilted fabrics are labelled; others are not. Note whether the manufacturer recommends drycleaning. Save the hang tag and give it to your professional drycelaner when you take the garment to him for cleaning.

Bear Yarns Consultant Hours Set

Mrs. Elaine Inman, style consultant for Bear Brand Yarns, will be at the Emporium tomorrow and Friday in the art needlework department, second floor. Her hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:15 tomorrow, and from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, to show the newest yarns and patterns.

Hand-knitted clothes have long since proved their practicality for travel and hard wear, says Mrs. Inman, and the demand for their custom look is increasing.

A brand new Fleisher yarn called "Souffle" is now available. Imported from France, it is 90 per cent special acrylic fiber and 10 per cent Vinyon. Light in weight and fluffy in texture, it comes in 27 colors; is machine and hand washable, needs no blocking and does not shrink or stretch.

It is economical—with 175 yards to the ball—which enables a knitter to make a one-piece dress with seven balls for under $9. A three-piece suit, with 13 balls, costs about $17.

This and other new yarns, patterns and techniques Mrs. Inman will show beginning and experienced knitters while at the Big E.

Water Temporarily Stops Geysers

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — When a hydroelectric dam was built below an area of geysers and steam vents on New Zealand's Waikato River, some of the thermal activity was drowned beneath the dammed-up river waters.

Now three new geysers have sprung into life on the river banks above the higher water level. One of them plays regularly for about eight minutes to a height of some 70 feet.

For The Young In Heart There's Good Fashion News

For the young (and young in heart) juniors, the junior circle at City of Paris is chock-full of the vivacious, spirited "new, in" looks for spring and summer.

This year you'll find the snappy Western look in cowpoke shirts softened by printed voiles and little calico prints . . . sucked into waist-riding skirts and pants . . . dungaree dolls and hogwashers.

Cotton knits are everywhere in the T-shirt treatment, ribs, competition stripes, surfers. Floral prints in teeny patterns. And, the underwear tank top . . . new as tomorrow.

One of the biggest hits of the new season . . . poor boy shifts are featured in ribbed wool and cottons . . . with the split level look . . . cotton knit stripes and solids.

Short or drooping socks, which show an expanse of leg when a man sits down — can mar an otherwise handsome appearance.

Their "saving ways" made a dream come true

At Citizens Federal, we share in proud occasions like this nearly every day. More than seventy-seven thousand families save a part of their incomes regularly with us, and we find that most of them save for a definite purpose—for a sunny day. If you are planning ahead for a moment like this, you will find a cordial welcome at the Citizens office near your business or home.

OFFICIAL BLAZER of the Bob Hope Desert Classic tournament, tailored by Hart Schaffner and Marx, is available in a variety of colors for summer comfort and relaxation at Hastings, Northgate. The fabric is a blend of Dacron polyester and worsted that is lightweight, easy to wear and wrinkle resistant.

Looks Like Suede But It Is Not

One of the most popular products this season is the leather garment made of split cowhide — or rawhide — that has been sueded to look like a regular suede and yet is said to have the serviceability of steerhide. Some manufacturers call the garments made of split cowhide "Bush Coats" or "Rough Outs." Others call this leather treatment "Poor Man's Suede." The most popular styles include cold weather parkas, western shirt jackets, "Apres" ski jackets, "Hondo" length zipout jackets.

"Rough," "tough," "utility" are key outerwear fashion words used to describe rawhide garments. The rawhide is being used with acrylic linters to give a shearing look—a heavy garment that is the direct opposite of the warmth-without-weight concept.

Rawhide jackets are being worn by the college crowd and teenagers as well as by adults.

There are two classes of coloring material used to color split cowhide: (1) Aniline or basic dye. The dye penetrates the skin and colors it uniformly throughout. (2) Pigment colors. The "oil" tanning method is used to color some split cowhide. Pigments are flushed into the outer surface of the skin with fat and oil. They do not penetrate through the skin. The oils remain in the leather and help hold the color in place.

Split cowhide has a very rough texture and a heavy fullness of hand compared with sheepskin. Because of the rough texture, the skin is difficult to redye and get evenness of color. This is why it is so important that you take your garment of split cowhide to a cleaner or a firm that specializes in handling suede and leather for cleaning, redyeing, and finishing.

Illinois Plagued By Insect Pests

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A University of Illinois entomologist says four crop-eating insects have invaded Illinois and pose varying threats to its crops.

W. H. Luckmann, who heads the Illinois Natural History Survey, says the alfalfa weevil, the western corn rootworm, the southwestern corn borer, the cereal leaf beetle are giving farmers headaches.

The alfalfa beetle is labeled as the most destructive insect to enter Illinois in many years. "Without insect treatment, some farmers may lose entire alfalfa stands," he said.

The western corn rootworm entered the state in 1964. Last year it was reported in six counties in western Illinois. The southwestern corn borer first appeared in 1963 and last year five other counties had infestations.

The cereal leaf beetle is another recent invader and appeared in seven locations along the eastern side of the state.

Specially Created Jewelry Is Popular

The popularity of specially created jewelry is greater than ever before, according to Raymond Randolph, manager of the Granat Bros. Northgate store.

"A piece of jewelry individually designed and specially fashioned for its owner easily becomes the most treasured of all possessions," says Randolph. "And individual taste can be interpreted in precious jewelry at very modest cost — or fabulously lavish extravagance."

Randolph notes that costs of having this work done can be greatly reduced by using diamonds or other gems from a person's own outmoded jewelry.

Granat Bros. jewelry craftsmen have created thousands of beautiful designs for customers and the company has the unique distinction of having won the Diamond-International Academy award for eight consecutive years, a record that has not been equalled by any other jeweler, according to Randolph.

Old Handcuff Still Works

Hooper is not a policeman. And his fiance, Carolyn Berwick, 19, has not robbed any banks.

The handcuffs were with a pile of dusty heirlooms Hooper and Carolyn were examining.

Carolyn's curiousity got the best of her and she clapped them on her wrists before inquiring whether there was a key.

Business, Casual Styles Stresed In New Topcoats

Topcoats and rainwear for spring stress the difference between those styled for business and those designed for casual wear.

Of course, that has been the case with topcoats for many years. However, this year there is a new breed of rainwear that is keyed directly to dress-up outfits. These citified rainsters are made with set-in sleeves and notched collars similar to those on dressy topcoats, their lines slimmed down. They button with either fly-fronts or button-through closures. Instead of patch or slash pockets, the dressy raincoats have regular flapped pockets and their general appearance is that of a modified chesterfield coat.

Some other town-type raincoats are in the increasingly popular double-breasted models. But these double-breasteds are definitely not trench coats. Devoid of epaulets, chest flaps and brass rings, these coats look like the British short warm. Some have belts, others half-belts, while many can be worn belted or plain.

British tan, several shades darker than the familiar natural tan, is increasingly in demand by well-dressed men. Sometimes it is slightly iridescent. Black, bone, olive, gray and subtle medium to dark plaids get the nod in waterproofs, too.

In topcoats, lightweight gabardines and suiting-type fabrics hold the spotlight. Topcoat gabardines are pure worsted and run the color scale from creamy natural shades to deep blues and stygian blacks.

The contemporary crowd will find appeal in worsted sharkskins, silk-worsted bleands in some new models. Forward fashion topcoats will L-shape lapels, with two-button closures, with fishmouth lapels and with triple-stitching on the collars, lapels and pockets pick-up much of the detailing so popular in "in" suits and sport coats of the same character.

So, the word now is—save your raglans and split-raglands for casual wear and wear the new set-in sleeves with dressy detailing for town and business.

Gloves represent an investment and should be treated with care. They can be stretched out of shape and the stitching torn if pulled on incorrectly, by yanking on the cuffs. Instead, work the fingers on, one at a time, and then pull down the cuff.

Paisley Prints Ready For Ties; New Shorts To Carry Striping

Dress shirts switch on the lights for the coming warm weather season. Neckwear will swirl through a host of paisley prints, East Indian motifs and classic reps, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Shirts will include lightweight oxfords, voiles, batiste basket-weaves, meshes and open-weave lenos. Often as not, these cool shirtings are striped. Newest of the stripes are the "wide-stance" types—well-spaced on either colored or white grounds. Multi-color stripes, as well as white or light stripes on deeper colors, will be other spring-summer favorites.

Among the new collar styles are wider spread models, semi-spreads, modified button-downs with some of the flare taken out, and updated "pin or not" collars that may be worn pinned or plain.

Yellows, pinks and peach are very good looking on the brighter side of the color scale. Those are balanced by deep-tone blues, grays and buffs.

Of course, the warm weather season brings its customary choice of long or half sleeves. It also offers selections of barrel button cuffs and French cuffs. The latter style, embellished with good looking cuff links, is a smart choice for dress-up outfits. Even the pockets come in for a bit of fashion treatment this spring with some of the traditionals carrying button-down flaps.

The final style touch is seen in the wide-gauge stitching used on some of the contemporary-type spread collars and the newly expanded assortment of checked traditional shirts that are slated for wear with business suits.

Neckties are definitely wider. Some aimed at the natural shoulder traditional man are three-inches wide and are fuller throughout the entire length. This gives the knot more size and ties-up with more of a "dimple" below the knot. Contemporary ties are wider, too—although not quite so hefty as the traditionals.

Newest style kick in ties—taken from London's Carnaby Street, the fashion Mecca for "Mods"—are flowered prints on slick cottons and silks. However, wildly swirling paisleys, now in woven as well as printed fabrics, rep stripes that are brighter and bolder than ever, club reps with neatly spaced woven motifs and striped twills that are lighter in weight and more finely ribbed than reps, all get the fashion nod.

Satins, both plain and figured, mesh-like grenadines in pale shades, underknots and other "engineered" patterns will attract the contemporary man. Polka dots, mostly on silk foulards but others in woven silks, are again popular with men of all tastes.

When the weather gets hot, washable ties of man-made fibers, India Madras and bow ties will fill the bill in a cool summery way, great partners for the new shirts and tropical suits and sport coats.

WIDE-SPACED STRIPES make the spring-summer fashion scene in batiste-weight dress shirts. This short-sleeve model features a tab collar and is worn with a woven pattern tie. The wider tie is indicative of a new trend—or a return to a previous one.

Transistorized Time Is Really Accurate

Accutron electronic clocks were on the control panels of the Gemini 7 and 6 spacecraft during their record - breaking space rendezvous missions last December. A third Accutron will be aboard Gemini 8, scheduled for a mission this month.

The 24-hour-dial clock aboard each craft was specially designed and manufactured by Bulova Watch Co., Inc., but its transistorized timekeeping unit is identical with that used in the watch-size consumer models of Accutron timepieces sold at Milens Jewelers Northgate store. Each model is guaranteed to maintain an in-use accuracy of plus or minus two seconds a day.

"Conventional watches are not nearly as accurate—a plus or minus error of 20 seconds a day is considered 'very good'—and they do not carry an specific guarantee of accuracy for actual performance on the wrist," notes owner Sheldon R. Milenbach.

The Accutron timekeeping unit uses a one-inch tuning fork as its frequency standard. The fork hums faintly between E and F above middle C as it vibrates 360 times a second, or 31,104,000 times each 24 hours —144 times as fast as the oscillation rate of the balance wheel in a conventional watch movement.

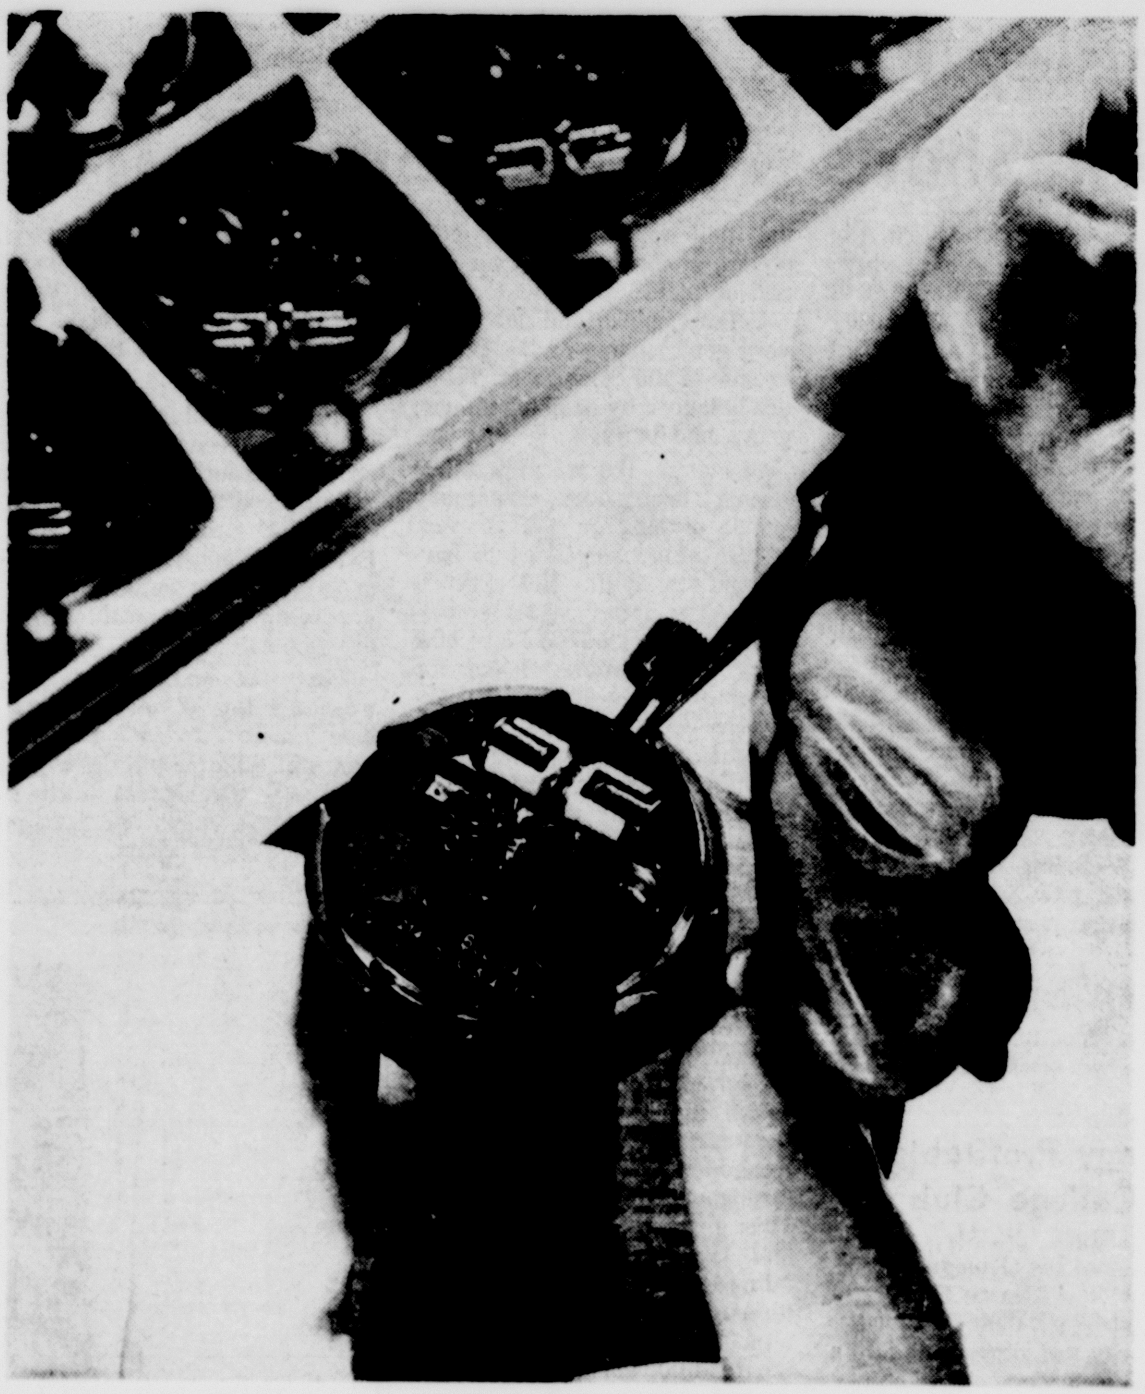
The unit operates on about .000008 watts, transmitted through a transistorized electronic circuit from a tiny power cell contained within the case.

The cell lasts at least a year. The power consumption of an Accutron timepiece is so low that the power used by an electrict toaster to toast one slice of bread would operate it for about 250 years.

Accutron was originally developed by Bulova as a consumer product but its accuracy and capacity to operate independently for long periods without adjustment or servicing quickly attracted the attention of space scientists. And in 1960 initial consumer production was delayed while the company adapted the timepiece to its first space assignment as a satellite timer.

Today Bulova produces more than 100 non-consumer models and combinations for space, defense, industrial and research applications. The newest version, just produced, was designed for the control panel of Project Apollo's moon-landing craft scheduled to land the first U.S. astronaut on the moon in 1970.

Bulova also produces 77 consumer models of Accutron timepieces, including men's wrist models, women's pendants and desk and boudoir clocks.



MICROSCOPIC ADJUSTMENT—A watchmaker at Milens Jewelers regulates the indexing mechanism of an Accutron timepiece. To perform this delicate operation the watchmaker uses a microscope focused on 75 of the 300 tiny jeweled teeth of the index wheel which is only 95 one-thousandths of an inch in diameter. The timepiece is adjusted and electronically checked to maintain a guaranteed on-the-wrist accuracy of plus or minus two seconds a day.

Commuters Like Their Driver

LOUISVILLE (AP) — An unusual friendship has developed between bus driver Shervin Travis and the passengers he picks up in a suburban area.

When Travis married recently, his passengers chipped in with a piggy bank filled with coins to help outfit his home.

How To Care For Your Silk

The majority of silks should be drycleaned, advises the National Institute of Drycleaning. Look for the label and follow the directions. If no cleaning care instructions are provided, and you are in doubt, have the garment drycleaned.

Problems occur with many silks when they are stained or spotted with water soluble substances. Food and perspiration are common examples of this type of stain. When water and detergent are applied to the stained area, the dye in silk will probably bleed. This is particularly noticeable in silk fabrics made with different colored yarns. The dye from the darker yarn will bleed onto the lighter yarn and create a noticeable and permanent stain.

Often a professional spotter can successfully remove stains from silk, says the Institute, but he's no magician. Best tip, if a drycleaner is not handy, is to use cool water only but test it first on a hidden seam. Even if the dyes are fast, it's often hard to remove all traces of the stain. If so, take it to a professional drycleaner as soon as possible, and tell him what the stain is.

Little things easily corrected —like hats worn on eyebrows, or back too high on the forehead—can spoil the look of a whole outfit.

Desert City Faces Major Expansion

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli officials predict that by the end of this century the population of Beersheba, the capital of the Nebev Desert, will be 250,000.

The ministries of housing and the interior are studying a master plan which includes a new industrial zone, a university, shopping center and new living quarters.

An important 1919 book that did not make the bestseller lists was Robert H. Goddard's "A Method of Reaching Extreme Altitudes," issued by the Smithsonian Institution. Goddard described his rocket experiments, and closed with this prophetic remark: "It remains only to perform certain necessary preliminary experiments before an apparatus can be constructed that will carry recording instruments to any desired altitude."

How You Can Look Different In Style

The ideal American woman's figure is—according to men—roughly in the 36-26-36 category. Women may be just as choosey about men only they phrase it with words instead of numbers —tall, dark and handsome.

But, as everyone knows, there are lots of us—men and women —who don't measure up to the ideal. Women have a host of things they can do to compensate, add, subtract and generally rearrange their figures.

Men—though many don't realize it—have a few things they can do to help nature along, too, reminds Hart Schaffner and Marx, whose local dealer is Hastings, Northgate.

If you are slender and tall, avoid hats with a very narrow brim, suits with bold stripes, shirts with low or long-point collars, and narrow ties, all of which will only accentuate your height.

The slender man should choose instead a hat with a medium brim and low crown, shirts with a tab, pinned, spread, or flared button-down collar, and a tie two and one-half inches wide with a figured pattern or stripe.

Such men can wear plaids and checks as well as hopsack and tweed fabrics because the bulkier look is complimentary. And the natural shoulder suit —called the Racquet Club by Hart Schaffner and Marx — is especially appropriate for tall men.

The short man, of course, strives for the tall lean look that the slender man avoids. You look taller when you wear a narrow brim hat with a higher crown and a shirt with medium or long-point collar. Striped shirts and narrower ties are especially good.

Short men should choose striped or dark fabrics, avoiding bulky-looking fabrics which emphasize lack of height. The advance fashion suit models — like Hart Schaffner and Marx' Ventura—are preferred for short men. A shorter topcoat will give a longer look.

If you're heavy—either tall or short—stay away from bulky-looking hats in soft finishes. And choose dark hats over light ones. Avoid shirts with tab or or spread collars, too; a lower collar with medium to long points or a button-down collar without a flare are recommended.

You might think the heavier man should wear narrow ties, but actually this is not advisable since it would provide too much of a contrast. Choose the tie in proportion to the build.

Suits should have smooth-finished fabrics (no hopsack, flannels or tweeds). In patterns, stripes are good—plaids aren't. The two-button suit in the trim advance fashion look is preferable but the wearer should avoid any extremes which trace body lines.

These are the Bows

Bow string tie is ankle high. Perfectly compliments the opened up, airy look. A gay way of living and walking, fashioned just for you. In Shiny Black Corfam that will not crack, peel or scuff ever.

Rock And Roll Bands Battle Is Scheduled

A battle of rock and roll bands to help provide funds for the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra is being planned by the H. Liebes stores.

A program to be known as Easter Hullabaloo has been scheduled for the San Francisco Cow Palace on April 4 and 5 from 7 to 10:45 p.m. when 38 bands vie for the title of "King of Rock 'n' Roll" for Northern California. Cash prizes will be awarded.

Since there are so many participants, Liebes stores plan to arrange the program similar to a three-ring circus, with continuous music throughout the entire program. There will also be a contest for go-go dancers, and some professional band talent has been hired.

First prize for the winning band will be a $1,000 prize, a large trophy and a recording contract. More than $1,000 in additional prizes, along with trophies and recording contracts will be awarded to other finalists.

Tickets are available at the Liebes Northgate store's cashier's desk. Entire net proceeds for the two nights is to be donated to the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.
